Chain villages endorse Waterway vote

TINA L. SWIECH
Staff Reporter

The waterway agency is gearing up for the biggest fight of its life—literally.

If all goes according to the plans of the CCCA (Concerned Citizens for the Continuation of the Agency) and the Chain O'

Lakes Fox River Waterway Management Agency, the agency will stay afloat.

The chairman of the agency, Dr. William C. Dam, has been working diligently to get the program saved. Dr. Dam noted that the last Lake County village agreed to accept the waterway agency resolution. Last week Lindenhurst said okay.

Other endorsements came from the Fox Lake Chamber of Commerce and Industry, the Fox Lake Garden Club and the Antioch Women's Club, among many more. "I've been all over (supporting the cause)," the busy chairman explained.

Larry Leafblad, county board member and campaign manager for the referendum, which he prefers to call a "question," said 27,000 registered voters in Lake County will have a voice on the issue as well as 23,000 in McHenry County.

Leafblad explained that the word "referendum" tends to scare people off. "They might think their taxes are going to be raised. There is no power to raise taxes, it's all user-fee based."

The county board member described the services of the agency as "basically a freebie."

"It's nice when you see 5,000 boats, and 4,900 are from Cook County, paying (the user-fee)," said Leafblad. "It would be a tragedy if it weren't continued."

Executive Director Karen Kabbes noted that residents in the townships of Antioch, Lake Villa, Grant, and parts of Cuba are eligible to vote on the cause.

The small portion of Cuba Township affected by the agency is west of Roberts Rd. to River Rd. to Kelsy Rd. to Rte. 22, and then to the northerly boundaries of Barrington Hills, said Kabbes.

The concerned townships to the west include McHenry, Nunda and Algonquin.

Industrial meeting focuses on business retention, growth

CLAUDIA M. LENART

Leaders from the local level to the state gathered in Antioch in a show of support for local industry, last week. At a packed village hall, industry owners were the focal point as they heard pledges of support from legislators and industry tips from government offices.

Community Development Coordinator Claude LeMere organized the first meeting of the Antioch Industrial Council. In his opening speech, LeMere outlined an ordinary day in Antioch in which he noticed products made by 32 local industries.

LeMere told local industry leaders, "You are the example of why See MEETING page A10

Village makes plans for Metra station

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Antioch Village Planner, Robert Silhan presented several options for the new Metra Commuter Rail station. The stations ranged in size from 304-square feet to 2,709-square feet.

Silhan, who prepared the sketches, offered a minimal structure, a median structure, and the "top of the line." The "minimal structure" was 304-square feet, with an indoor waiting room of 14 feet by 17 feet. The estimated price tag on this station is $56,000.

"This is roughly the size of the roofed over area of the bicycle rack at the Fox Lake Station," said Silhan.

The proposed "median structure" is 1,107-square feet with a 19-foot by 25-foot waiting room. This design also includes handicapped-accessible bathrooms, a storage area, and a coffee/service counter which could be converted to a ticket sales booth in the future. The cost for this station is estimated at $170,000.

The "top-of-the-line" proposal is 2,709-square feet, with a 25-foot by 25-foot waiting room. The station could also house a storage area, coffee and gift shop, restrooms, and a community room or two more shop spaces. The cost of this plan is $428,000. This station has a tower with a peaked roof approximately 35-feet tall.

The Redevelopment Commission recommended the "top-of-the-line" model with modifications such as opening up the wing sections and removing the washrooms and See METRA page A10

Emmons School is bursting at the seams, wants addition

Mary Foley
Staff Reporter

Emmons School has 12 full-sized classrooms, one multi-purpose room used as a lunch room, gymnasium and stage, and a portable classroom unit and is simply bursting at the seams.

Teachers have offices in closets, band is taught precariously on the stage, a combination third and fourth grade was created to handle additional students, and the coatrooms have been moved out into the hall to allow for more classroom space. After trying almost every feasible alternative to combat the space problem, the school board has authorized a 19 cent building referendum for the March ballot.

Emmons School is one of the two single-school independent districts in the Antioch area. The district has experienced a large increase in its enrollment this year. According to Tabar, the increases are a result of homeowner turn-over of existing homes and new homeowners in the Heron Harbor and Fairway Estates subdivisions.

Emmons instituted numerous changes before going to the taxpayers. Community Committees have spent the past several years looking for solutions to the Emmons overcrowding situation. In 1990, the school undertook a life safety project that added two additional classrooms made from open space in the lower level hallway.

Administrators increased the class size as well as added the relocatable classroom in 1992. Presently, the portable classrooms hold the school's library as well as some special education classes. This unit is being leased with an option to purchase. Essentially, every square foot of the school is currently in use.

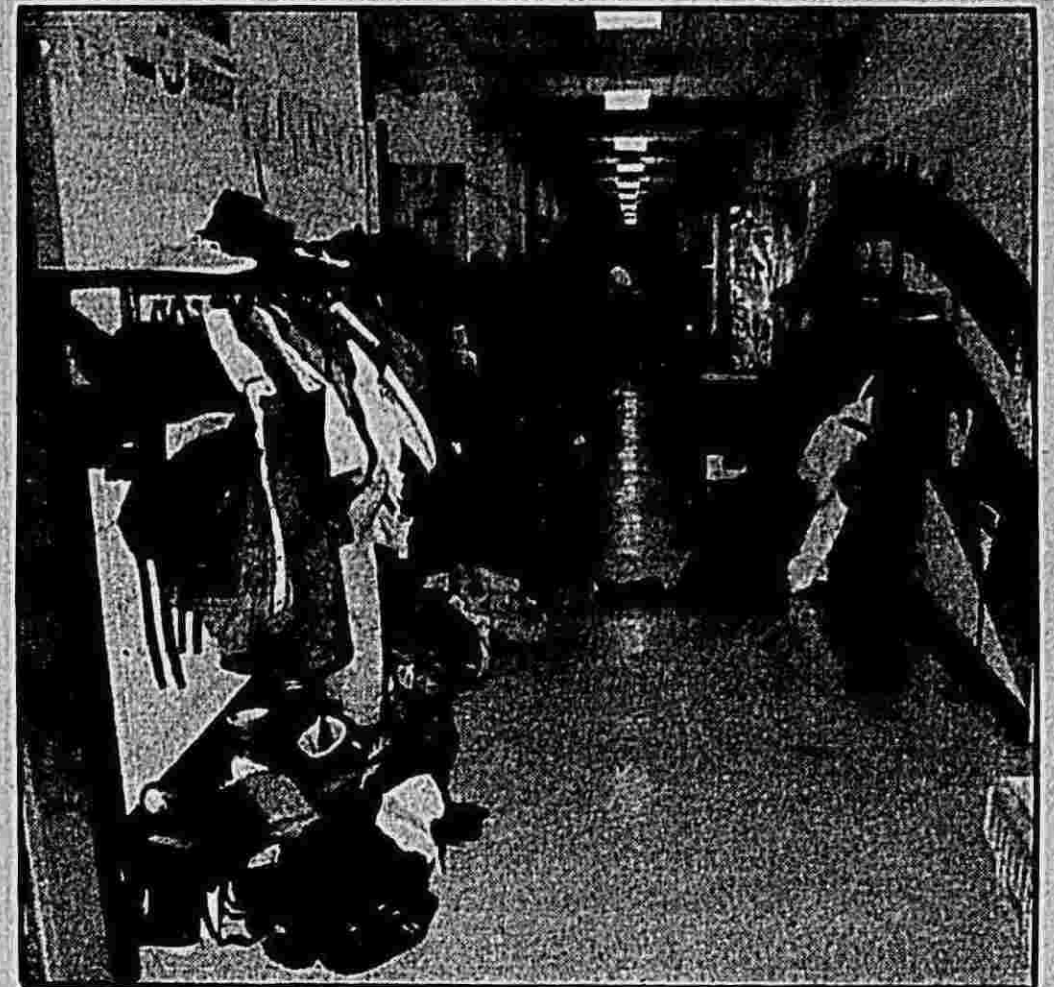

Emmons School worked hard to support the past Antioch

Community High School building referenda proposing the use of existing high school facilities on a rental basis. In a cooperative effort other feeder grade schools' officials had hoped Emmons could use the ACHS building to address the space problem. Area voters rejected the ACHS building plans and each feeder school has been left to resolve its own needs.

"We got a commitment from all the feeder schools," said Emmons School Superintendent Matt Tabar. "It would have allowed a consolidated middle school. But, when the ACHS building referenda failed, we knew we had to look at other alternatives."

Officials even considered using the gymnasium for classrooms. The school would then build a pole barn to house the gym. However, that plan was not really practical.

"It was not a viable idea," said

Tabar. "It turned out not to be much cheaper than our building plan."

Tabar said the school even considered renting the Antioch Comfort Inn at one point. After reviewing all possible plans, officials determined to build more space was the only sensible idea.

"This will be basic space for students," explained Tabar. "We had an architect look at design possibilities and we came to the point we are now. We waited as long as we possibly could. We have exhausted all the possibilities. That is why we are on the ballot this March."

Concerned about a past failed building referendum, the school board first went to the community to get a read on public opinion.

"We took our own poll," said Tabar. "Families with children in the school supported a building plan 100 percent. Non user households supported the plan approximately 50 percent. We took this to be very positive."

The estimated cost for the project is $1.5 million, however, voters will be asked to approve $1.4 million to be financed over a 15-year period. Impact fees of $110,000 collected over the past four years will be used to offset the costs.

The Emmons School building addition would include 14 classrooms to meet the needs of increased enrollment. The project would include two sets of student washrooms, an elevator (required under ADA laws), a sprinkler system, a new septic field, lot improvement, and equipment to furnish classrooms such as desks, chalkboards, bulletin boards, book shelves, and closets.

With a successful referendum in March of 1994, students will be able to occupy the addition in the fall of 1995. The foundation would be installed in the summer of 1994 and the project would be under roof in the fall of 1994.

Tabar is confident that if the referendum passes, the school will not be asking voters for more money next year. "We have enough to support the education fund," said Tabar. "We will not need additional money for the education fund in the foreseeable future. We have healthy growth."

The referendum committee has plans to get the word out to residents before the March vote.

"We are using the neighborhood approach," explained Barbara Comstock, referendum committee chairperson. "Committee volunteers will take on their own neighborhoods by phone or in person to offer accurate information about the referendum. At the end of February we will have a mailing going out to address some of the concerns of residents. On Feb. 28 we will be having an informational meeting."

Emmons School seems to have a combination of involved parents and academic achievers. Parents several months ago gathered together to rebuild the playground at the school. The school also received excellent marks from the state when ranked in the state school report cards. Emmons eighth-graders scores were up in all categories from last year as well as above the state averages.

Homeowner association representatives sought

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

An organization of homeowner associations in the unincorporated area is still seeking to contact representatives from a number of homeowner groups. At this time, contact has been made with 34 of the groups:

Representatives from Channel Lake Shores, Sun-Side Improvement, Canoakes Improvement, Lake View Subdivision, Midlakes, Lagoon on the Lakes, East Loon Lake, Golfview, Petite Lake Gardens, Cedarcrest, Glen Nagis, Del Monte Gardens, and Beachview are encouraged to call Carol Jonites at 395-7371.

It is possible that some of these groups are comprised of summer residents only, so if anyone has any information regarding these organizations, they are encouraged to call Jonites.

The combined homeowner association group has met twice already. Each association discussed its approach to the problem and came away with some new ideas on how to address the problem.

Pre-school screenings at Emmons

Emmons School District 33 has scheduled pre-school screenings for children living in the Emmons District. Parents who are concerned about their pre-school child's speech, general progress, or other developmental skills may have their child screened by the Emmons staff on March 18, in the afternoon. The screening is for 3- and 4-year-olds, not children who will be entering kindergarten in the fall, unless there is a concern. Call Emmons School by March 11 if interested (395-1105).

Women's Club offers scholarship

The Antioch Junior Women's Club is offering a $500 scholarship to anyone residing in Antioch Township who is, or will be, a full-time student at a two- or four-year college. Applications for the scholarship are available at the Antioch Village Hall, Antioch Township Library, Antioch Community High School guidance office, and the College of Lake County financial aid office. The deadline to return the application is April 15. A committee will anonymously select the recipient based on scholastic ability, merit, and financial need. The winner will be notified in May. The Antioch Junior Women's Club is an organization which serves the Antioch community through charitable and philanthropic activities, while promoting intellectual development and sociability among its members.

Library has novel idea

The Oakland School has a way to enhance the school library with the Library Book Club. For $10, a library book will be purchased and dedicated in the student's name. Best of all, the student then has first crack at checking out the book. For more information call Cheri at 838-1519.

Bumper stickers are available

Some fortunate parents of students at Antioch Upper Grade School will be receiving an honor roll bumper sticker if their student(s) have made the honor roll a minimum of two times. The school hopes these bumper stickers will be prominently displayed because they are very proud of both the parents and students for achieving this honor.

Employer group recognizes Geo-Karis for voting record

Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) has been recognized for her voting record on legislation to strengthen the job climate in Illinois.

The Management Association of Illinois (MAI) named Geo-Karis a recipient of the "Voice of Employers" award for her support of 12 key employment law issues in the Senate and the House during the Spring and Fall session of last year.

The MAI selected issues such as health care, insurance, drugs and alcohol in the workplace as being critical to an employers' bottom line and ability to compete. Jay Shattuck, CAE, executive vice president of the MAI said those legislators that supported these high-priority employment law issues for employers, received the award.

"These awards reflect a commitment by the legislator to protect and enhance Illinois' job climate," Shattuck said.

The MAI represents almost 2,000 member companies in Illinois and will recognize the award recipients during its annual meetings in 1994.

Emmons kids count down to blast off

MARY FOLEY

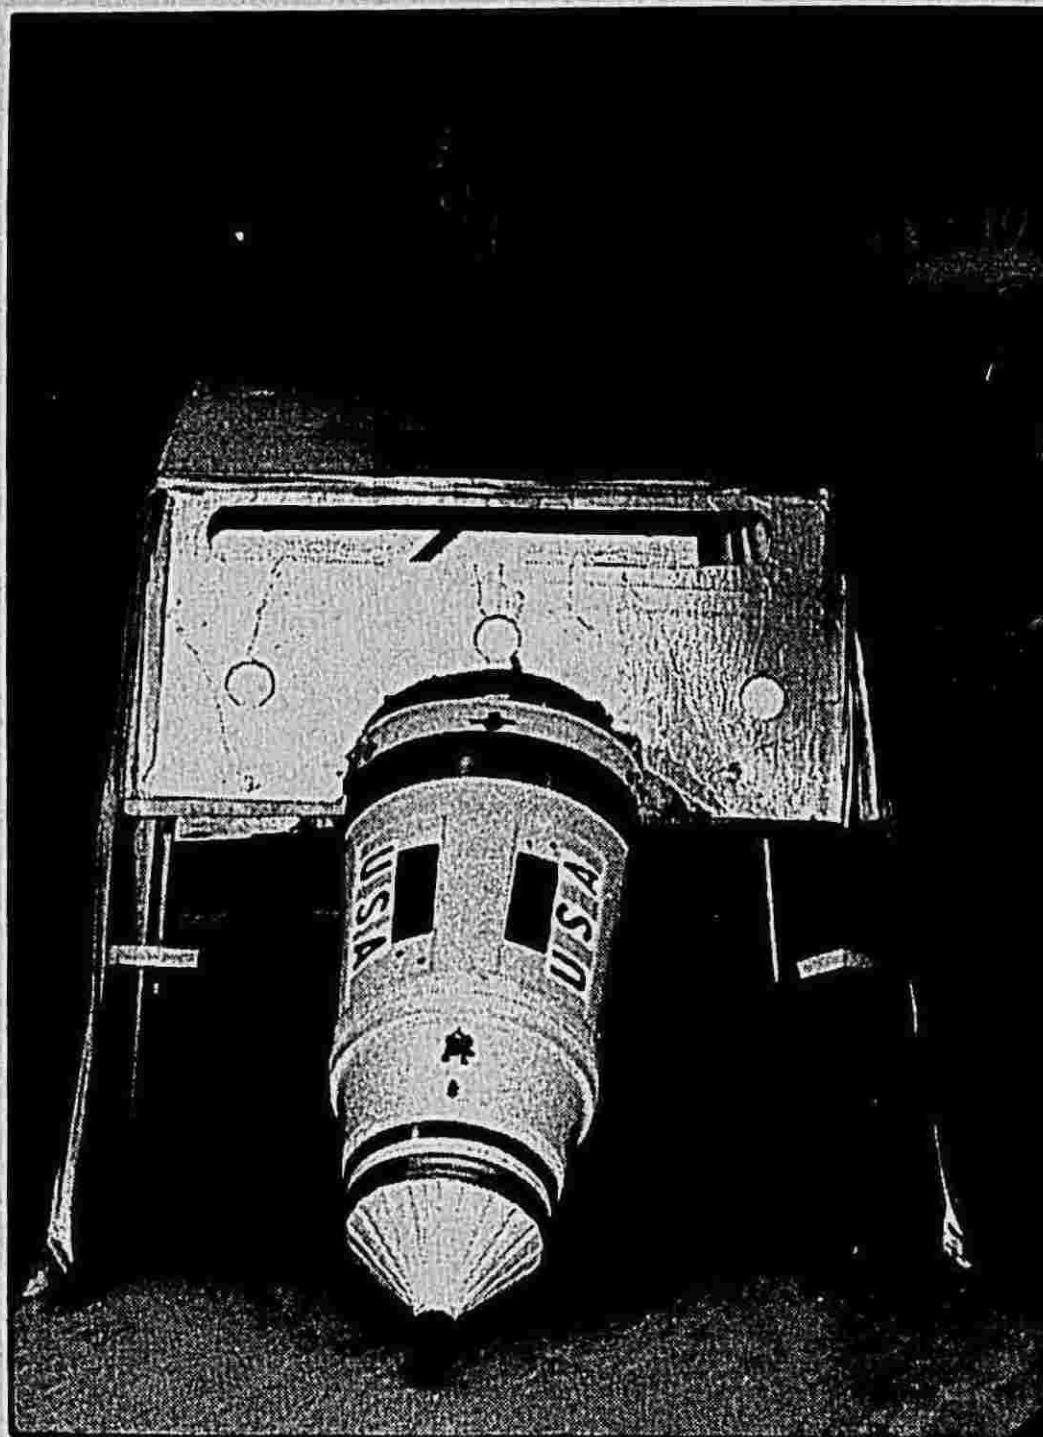

Staff Reporter

During an assembly Monday, all of Emmons School joined together for the count down of the 4th annual space simulation. More than 75 fourth and fifth graders participated in the program in which students manned a simulated mission control, a space station, and a space shuttle.

"This program is not only exciting and fun, but it is a way for the students to integrate what they've learned in math, science, and English," explained Matt Tabar, the school's superintendent. "Our program has become so successful and well organized, that it has become a model for other similar programs throughout the county. It is one of the most anticipated and involved programs we do for both parents and students."

Parents and students constructed a self-contained habitat to house the astronauts for their 24-hour adventure. They were linked by radio and computer to mission control, staffed by classmates. In addition to growing plants in the simulated space, students also took snails along with them to record scientific data.

The program was coordinated with the Lake County Business Industry and Education Consortium.

Trouble at area restaurants

During a routine check by Antioch Police Department, police discovered Adam Moore, age 19, of Antioch holding a 12-ounce Miller beer at the Waterfall Restaurant on Friday, Feb. 11 at 9:30 p.m. After arresting Moore for consumption of alcohol by a minor, Moore told police that his identification card was never checked by employees and he had been drinking there since 7 p.m. Moore was released on bond and given a court date.

On Thursday, Feb. 10, Antioch Police responded to a fight in progress at the Vault Restaurant, in the parking lot. Police arrived to find Dean Vocke, age 27 of Antioch, and Larry Williams, age 24, of Antioch, pushing and yelling at each other. Patrons and restaurant personnel became alarmed and called 911. Both gentlemen were arrested for disorderly conduct and released on bond.

Man threatens woman's life

Brian Semm, age 35, of Antioch, was arrested for domestic battery and criminal trespass on Sunday, Feb. 13, and Monday, Feb. 14. According to police, Semm struck the victim in the face while threatening to kill her during an altercation. After Semm was arrested he was placed on a conditional bond release which allowed no contact with the victim as well as a prohibition from entering or remaining at the residence of the victim. When police arrived the next day to get a more complete statement from the victim, Semm was observed running through the front hallway of the residence in violation of the conditional release. Officers pursued Semm and found him attempting to hide under the bed. Semm was then arrested for criminal trespass and was placed in a cell to await bond.

Home damaged by fire

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

On Monday, Valentine's Day, around 2:30 p.m., the home of Howard Novak was nearly destroyed by fire. Fortunately, no one was home at time. The fire was discovered and called in by a neighbor.

Firefighters from Antioch and Fox Lake battled the flames that caused approximately $80,000 in damage. Lake Villa firefighters provided coverage for Antioch during the fire.

One of the problems facing firefighters was that the access roads to the home were fairly narrow. Firefighters had to carry much of the equipment to the site.

"We couldn't get as close as we would have liked," said Antioch Captain Rich Frankson. "There were small one-lane roads, but that is not so unusual."

The owner of the home is Howard Novak, although his son was residing there at the time of the fire. No official cause of the fire has been determined.

No injuries were reported as a result of the fire.

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

Donald Fechtner, president of the Grass Lake Board of Education resigned during a regular school board meeting. Replacing Fechtner will be Cynthia Marquart, a newly elected board member.

According to Fechtner, his resignation centers around the selection of a new superintendent. Dr. Ruth Bill, the current superintendent will officially be resigning at the end of the school year.

"My main concern was that I felt that the new superintendent should have all the cards played on the table," explained Fechtner. "I was unable to reach a majority of the board to do that. As the president of the board I would have needed to work closely with the new superintendent. It would have been very awkward."

Fechtner, however, had only nice things to say about Marquart.

"I have all the confidence in the world with Cynthia Marquart," said Fechtner. "I am sure a lot of positive things will take place."

Marquart is taking a positive approach despite the resignations of both the superintendent and the board president. There are further problems at the school including less-than spectacular ratings on the state school report card.

"I look forward to the future," said Marquart. "We're not looking back; we are looking forward."

The school is now accepting applications from Grass Lake District residents wishing to serve on the board. All applications must be returned by Feb. 25.

Dr. Ruth Bill, school superintendent, in a letter dated Oct. 22, told the board that she has chosen to pursue other career opportunities. "While I will always remember my tenure in this district with significant memories and will cherish the good things accomplished," the letter continued, "I feel that it is an appropriate time for me to pursue other administrative and educational challenges."

The Grass Lake School Board has contracted with the Illinois Association of School Boards (IASB) to begin the necessary steps to locate a new superintendent to replace Bill. Through the field representative Dawn Miller, the selection process began by sending out surveys to parents, staff, the community, and the board.

Then Miller will meet with a focus group, staff members, and the individual members of the board. Once the information is compiled, a profile will be created to match a candidate with the superintendent position.

Township endorses both referenda

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

After presentations by both board members from Antioch Community High School and the Waterway Agency, the Antioch Township board approved two resolutions endorsing both referenda.

Robert Lindquist, Lake County Director of the Chain O' Lakes Fox River Waterway Management Agency fielded questions regarding the referendum from both the board and the audience. Lindquist told listeners that the Agency does not use taxpayer dollars and is instead funded by user fees. Lindquist cautioned that if the agency was dissolved, it is likely the user fees would continue, heading down to Springfield, instead of being spent locally.

Lindquist also told the group that police protection on the waterways was completely paid for by the Waterway Agency through contract. A member of the audience disagreed.

"I take exception to that statement," said a member of the audience. "The Agency received some donations to offset the cost of policing the waters."

Lindquist admitted this was true and that the agency did receive some donations for protection, but added, "Not in McHenry."

The board passed the resolution with one dissenting vote, Judy Davis.

Then, it was on to the Antioch Community High School referendum presentation. The board unanimously passed this resolution.

Campbell appreciates nature's beauty

Caring man

Bravo Carl Campbell for caring enough about the beauty of nature to offer a reward to assist in the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who may have deliberately used snowmobiles to kill 35 ducks on the Fox River a few weeks back. If this was a deliberate act, I, too, am appalled at such an unnecessary, uncaring, vicious act against nature. However, I hope that you do not have to spend that money. I hope if anyone would have information of such a crime, they would come forth simply because it is the right thing to do. I know I would.

Yes, I am an animal lover. I enjoy living in the Antioch area of the beautiful Chain O'Lakes because of the various wildlife abundant around here. I am not saying that everyone should enjoy animals to the degree that Carl Campbell and I do. On the other hand, if this act was deliberate, I can't imagine what kind of person would feel the need to commit such a senseless crime against a living, breathing thing. A couple of old sayings come to mind "Live and let live" and "Treat others the way you would like to be treated." Thanks for caring, Carl!!

Yummy drug

Do you have a weight problem? Have you ever said "I really don't know why I am overweight—I don't eat that much?" When was the last time you tried to shed some of your extra baggage by dieting? As I shared with you before, I am in a diet contest in an effort to lose some weight and boy has it been a discovery. I think I finally understand the statement "Food is often a drug of choice." I don't do drugs. I don't drink and I don't smoke. However, as I try to limit my food intake, I have become very familiar with all the reasons for "eating/overeating."

Granted we all need to eat a balanced diet to survive and be healthy. The pendulum in my case has swung drastically in the other direction — my eating habits are not healthy, they are crutches/weaknesses. You name it, I can think of a reason to eat for it. My list of eating excuses goes on and on; it's a special occasion; I like to eat; the weather is lousy; a snack for reading; TV and snack time; I'm bored; I put in a full day so relax with a few goodie's it's there, feeling down it's a great pick me up; I have to cook for others; the holidays are here; I'll diet tomorrow; I'm not that heavy, I could lose my extra weight load any time; etc, etc. Bottom line is I rarely eat because I am hungry. Bottom line, maybe I will lose this weight, then I must contend with the next step of keeping it off. Just like getting sober to an over drinker isn't the main issue. The greater issue is maintaining sobriety for a long period of time/forever.

Yes, I can diet. Yes, I can lose some or all of my weight. Can I then make the necessary changes in me to maintain the weight loss forever? If I am successful in the first step, I will pray for the will, strength and search for the knowledge on how to continue long term — taking it "one day at a time." Yes, dieting has been a revelation!

Pony tail queen

As I shared with you time and time again, working with little ones through the Camp Crayon Program definitely has a tremendous amount of rewards and special memories. Not only do we get the opportunity to know and love the children currently in the program, we also have the pleasure of getting acquainted with future Camp Crayonites as younger siblings often accompany mom or dad at drop off and pick up time.

It seems like yesterday that Dan and Bonnie Tybor were expecting their third child. In March the little Tybor caboose, Tara Lynn, will be three years old. We watched her grow as a babe in arms into her toddling years. Now she is almost a preschooler. She is a precious, little, blonde, bundle of smiles and energy. When she recently came in sporting a half inch pony tail (smaller than the pony tail holder) and proud of it, I realized how quickly history repeats itself.

It wasn't too long ago when big sister Paige (now 5 years old) did the same thing. Paige couldn't wait till her hair grew long and now we can hardly remember the time when it wasn't. Hang in there, Tara, soon you will have long beautiful hair like Paige.

Pioneer woman

As I have mentioned before, I was born and raised in Chicago for the first 24 years of my life. Being accustomed to the convenience and hustle and bustle of city life, I truly thrived on the various aspects of it. It is hard to believe I am the same person who was raised on a busy city street, rode a bicycle along side CTA buses and knew how to take a bus or an eltrain just about anywhere. When we moved to Antioch 27 years ago, it took me awhile to realize I was truly a country girl at heart.

As I adjusted more and more to living miles away from stores, no public transportation, the waterfront for a backyard and the quietness of a back road location, I soon realized I was born too late. As the years ticked by and the feeding of the Canadian geese became even more exciting than a shopping spree to downtown Chicago, I realized I would have fared marvelously well during the pioneer days of the horse and buggies, living in a cozy log cabin in the middle of God's Country and with no modern gadgets to contend with. Read on and you will understand why.....

Please bow

Last week I mentioned the grandparent list among my close friends and acquaintances, who are close to my age, is growing in leaps and bounds. In my opinion these relatively new grandparents and also the more experienced grandparents that I mention here, deserve both recognition and also a big hip hip huray on a job well done.

The following is a list of grandparents, who I feel enjoy the role to the fullest and have cared enough and loved enough over the years to be actively and closely involved in the lives of their children and now grandchildren. I think they will all agree, there is nothing as important as family. Join me in a big round of applause for the following grandparents who believe in family above all. Will you all please stand up and take a bow — Fran and Paul Adelizzi, Sue and Leo Anderson, Celia and Vic Bennett, Linda and John Boerman, Lu and Ed Caulfield, Catherine and Ed Phillips, Sandy and Russ Gilday, Flo and Don Gofron, Jean and Ed Haling, Myrtle and Rudy Kubica, Elaine and Bob Lasky.

Jeanne and Pete Lehman, Pat and Bill Lepsi, Barb and Lee Marre, Donna and Don Marsich, Mary and Dick Marsich, Delores and Ed Mulcahy, Ernie and Ed Okrzesik, Pat and Bernie Olszewski, Dee and Joe Samson, Rose and Tom Simpson, Mary and Tom Stahl, Grace and Rich Tierney, and Pat and Joe Zeien. Sorry if I left anyone out.

Alliance for Better Government profiles precinct candidates

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

The Alliance for Better Government, a political action group, is supporting a candidate for County Board and 13 precinct committee people.

Precinct candidate, (Precinct 1) Roy Sackschewsky has been a resident of Antioch Township for approximately 14 years. He is a principle instructor for Commonwealth Edison where he trains nuclear operators at the Zion Station. Prior to moving to Antioch, Roy served four years in the U.S. Navy as an instructor at the Naval Nuclear Power School. He earned his bachelor's degree from Concordia Teachers College and his masters from University of Nebraska. Roy's wife, Carol, is a watercolor artist and teaches art at St. Peter School. They have one son.

Roy was very active on the steering committee for "Against Riverboat Casinos" and is presently chairman of the Alliance for Better Government. He believes elected officials are responsible to their electorate and that an open discussion of the issues will lead to better decisions.

As precinct committeeman, he believes residents should be informed of the governmental issues important to maintaining our lakes and rivers, and services to the residents.

He looks forward to working with others in the Republican Party to keep the Antioch area moving in a direction which preserves natural resources so that Antioch can be a place residents are proud to call home.

Judy Martini is the group's choice for county board member as well as precinct committeeman in Precinct 3.

Martini, age 41, has lived in the Antioch area for the past 17 years. She graduated from Richmond-Burton High School and studied environmental horticulture at the College of Lake County.

A licensed personal assistant and Realtor at RE/MAX Advantage in Antioch, she is also a member of St. Peter's Church.

Lightfoot

Martini lives with her son, Jesse.

Martini is a director on the Chain O' Lakes Fox River Waterway Management Agency. She is an appointed member of the Special Area Management Planning Commission (SAMP), which is a consortium of governmental units evaluating waterway related problems.

One of the key issues in Martini's campaign is representation. She is particularly proud of her availability to her constituents.

"My record stands for itself," says Martini. "I've always been there to help people when they need me. I will treat the position of Lake County Board member as an honor. It is a privilege — a privilege I will welcome with open arms and an open ear."

Martini is an advocate for the environment. She is a member of Citizens Against Unsafe Electricity (CAUSE), which opposes the construction of overhead powerlines in the Loon Lake area.

Candidate Vince Lightfoot (Precinct 11) moved to Antioch three years ago from the Palatine area. His move was prompted by the congestion and uncontrolled growth of Palatine.

Lightfoot sees Antioch as a fine town to live in and continue his work on community issues. For more than 15 years, Lightfoot has been involved in quality of life issues, such as annexation, zoning, land use, land planning, and gang prevention.

Lightfoot attended Syracuse University and has a degree in business administration, as well as an associate's degree in electronics. He is a member of a number of professional industry associations.

In a continuing effort to support the community of Antioch, Lightfoot became a member of the Citizens Advisory Committee for Antioch Community High School. In addition, he was a candidate for trustee in the Village of Antioch.

Lightfoot, along with his wife, Linda, and son, Eric, live in the Heron Harbor development where he has been instrumental in setting up and acting as president of their homeowners group.

Alliance to hold detention center meeting

The Alliance for Better Government is sponsoring an informational meeting about the upcoming juvenile detention center referendum on Feb. 22 at 7:30 p.m. at the State Bank of the Lakes. This is the second in a series of three meetings to discuss both sides of referendum issues which will appear on the March 15 ballot.

Judge Margaret Cullen will be presenting information regarding this matter and everyone is invited to attend. The bank is located on 440 Lake St. in Antioch.

A third meeting is scheduled for March 1 regarding the Antioch Community High School education fund referendum. It is reported that school officials and members of BEST will be squaring off.

This meeting will also be at 7:30 at the State Bank of Antioch.—by MARY FOLEY

Candidates for sheriff to face off

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

The League of Women Voters of Lake County and Lakeland Newspapers are cosponsoring a community forum on Feb. 28 featuring the candidates for Lake County Sheriff. The forum will be held at the Antioch Village Hall at 874 Main Street in Antioch 8 p.m. A moderator from outside the district will lead the discussion.

Each candidate will be asked to make an opening statement, focusing on qualifications and platform. Then, they will answer written questions posed by the audience and make a concluding statement.

Campaign literature, as well as biographical material will be available in the back of the board room. However, no campaign posters or banners will be permitted inside.

In the sheriff's race, Sheriff Clint Grinnell and Ed Sindles are squaring off for the Republican spot on the ballot with Richard Jablonski running unopposed for the Democratic spot.

The seating of the candidates will be determined by lottery and the order in which they are seated is the same in which they will give both their opening and closing statements. Jablonski, the Democratic candidate, will have an opportunity to make an opening statement, but will then join the audience because he is running unopposed.

The candidates will be limited to a three-minute opening statement and a two-minute closing statement. Time will be kept by league members and countdown cards will be visible to the moderator and the candidates.

The candidates may bring notes, no props will be allowed. The League will provide each candidate with materials for taking notes during the debate.

Everyone is invited to what will surely be a lively debate.

Agency takes credit for clean Chain waters

Publisher

Water in the Chain O'Lakes is cleaner than Lake Geneva and the Lake Forest beach on Lake Michigan.

That was the assertion of Dr. William Dam, chairman of the Chain O'Lakes/Fox River Water Management Agency at a public forum held on why the district should be retained.

Voters in Antioch, Grant Township, Lake Villa, Lindenhurst and parts of McHenry County will decide March 15 whether the agency should be extended beyond Dec. 31, 1994.

Dr. Dam spoke out at a meeting Tuesday night sponsored by the Alliance for Better Government held at State Bank of the Lakes, Antioch. The meeting was part of an extensive public information campaign the agency is conducting on both sides of the Fox River to acquaint voters with what the district has been working on since formed nearly 10 years ago.

In answer to a question on what the agency has been doing about controlling boat speeds, Dam replied: "There are other agencies that handle speed regulations. Frankly, we have been steering away from law enforcement. My feeling is that the agency should do the things that we can do."

That would include dredging channels for navigation and flood control, cleaning up the Chain's 64,000 acres of water, and advancing safety on the 35-mile stretch from the Wilmot Dam to Algonquin.

Agency Director Karen Kabbes, one of 10 paid employees on the non-tax supported agency, described how cooperation of property owners and local government has assisted in dredging and clean up projects that often are in back water areas not visible to the public.

"Some of the dredging work isn't a pretty sight," Kabbes stated, "but we're there." She pointed out that most of the sediment in the Chain is not contaminated. Dredged silt has many worthwhile uses, she stated.

"Some of the dredging work isn't a pretty sight, but we're there."

—Karen Kabbes, agency director

Asked about the agency's relationship with private interests promoting riverboat casinos on the Chain, Dr. Dam said that a majority of the non-paid directors felt that accepting donations from riverboat advocates was in the "best interests" of the community.

Director Judy Martini, a candidate for the Lake County Board in the March 15 primary, pointed out to ABG members that she was the lone vote against accepting riverboat contributions. "I feel there are other avenues for revenue," Martini declared.

Meeting

the United States of America is the greatest country in the world today. You are industry. The very foundation this great nation is built on."

There were 13 speakers at the gathering, but one key idea kept popping up, business retention. The idea of business retention is one of the goals of the Antioch Industrial Council. By keeping the lines of communication open between industry and the village, it is hoped industry will find the climate favorable and remain in Antioch. The thought is also to make Antioch attractive to new businesses.

Among the speakers were state Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis and state Rep. Robert Churchill who told industry leaders they are pro-business.

"We have seen the flight of industry to different states," said Churchill. "Those of us in the legislature who are pro business understand that is not good for the communities we represent."

Geo-Karis said she is encouraged by the steps the Village of Antioch is taking with its industrial community. "I'm very proud of Antioch. Antioch is a progressive community," she said.

Both legislators invited industry leaders to call their offices with concerns over issues.

Representatives from the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA) also spoke to the audience about industry issues at the state level and programs available to industries. Peter Ramirez of DCCA said the department has a task force on business retention and is implementing five pilot projects in the state. Jerry Mytyck of DCCA told of some creative programs which work with communities to create a vital industrial climate.

At the county level, industry leaders heard from the Lake County Department of Economic Development including Cranston Byrd, deputy director, Warren Wood, senior planner, and Margo Nelson, financial specialist. Byrd said the motto of the department is "to prosper and grow." Chris Stevens, director of the Lake County Private Industry Council told industry leaders how the council can help find workers.

Tim Skoning, director of Business and Industry Training at the College of Lake County told how the college can help businesses procure government contracts. He said CLC recently helped a county business get a contract in Italy.

Bill Ryan of Commonwealth

Edison spoke of how the utility helps industries reduce costs through discount rate structures. "Industry is extremely important to all of us and we want to make sure it stays here," said Ryan.

Cliff Houghton, Antioch Township Assessor, gave local industries one good reason to stay — low tax rates. Houghton said, because of the tax cap, tax rates are falling for industry. Meanwhile the tax value is rising ever so slightly. "The typical industry in Antioch will see a 1 percent increase in taxable value," said Houghton.

The closing speaker was Mayor Marilyn Shineflug who thanked all the speakers and industry leaders for attending. "By attending, you're not only helping Antioch retain business, you're helping other industries come to Antioch... A strong industrial sector is important to the community. A growing tax base and jobs benefit everyone."

LeMere said the Antioch Industrial Council will probably meet quarterly or semi-annually. He said he received positive comments from industry leaders regarding the program.

"A lot of them are making use of the different agencies and incentives. It gave them a lift," said LeMere.

Man causes ruckus at station

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

On Tuesday, Feb. 8 police observed Cory McClellan, age 19, of Fox Lake exiting the front door of the Las Vegas Restaurant. He caught the attention of police because he was reportedly staggering south on Main Street, waving his arms wildly, and screaming.

The apparently intoxicated man then entered the passenger side of a vehicle being driven by an unknown driver. The vehicle turned down an alley and turned into the back entrance of the Las Vegas. McClellan then reentered the restaurant through the rear door.

According to the report, when the officer attempted to discuss with McClellan his unusual behavior, McClellan reportedly became aggressive screaming profanities. The officer detected both a strong odor of alcohol beverages as well as red and blood shot eyes and attempted to arrest McClellan for consumption of alcohol by a minor. During a pat-down, a partially full can of beer was found in McClellan's coat pocket.

McClellan then began to push officers while swearing and swinging his arms. After he was arrested and handcuffed, McClellan was placed in leg shackles for his own safety.

McClellan continued to scream profanities and spit repeatedly in the officer's faces.

After approximately an hour, the shackles and handcuffs were removed, but McClellan became violent once more and after a warning, officers administered OC Pepper spray.

Once calmed down, officers flushed McClellan's face and eyes with cold water for relief, but as he was being returned to his cell, he once again became combative, spitting and thrashing.

After charging McClellan with unlawful possession and consumption of alcoholic beverage by a minor, resisting arrest, battery, and disorderly conduct, he was photographed, processed and placed back into his cell. At this time, McClellan removed his pants and underwear displaying his penis and stated to a female officer "I'll give you a piece of this."

Offender then turned around displaying his bare buttocks and stated, "How about this baby?" McClellan remained in the cell until he was released on bond.

coffee counter. According to Silhan, the commission had concerns about restroom maintenance and vandalism.

Trustee Don Amundsen was disappointed that the station did not have a more "turn of the century" look.

"I thought it was going to be an old-style train station," said Amundsen. "I would prefer it. I think this model is a little grand."

The station must be completed by April 1996. That would require construction to begin in 1995. The board will take the suggestions under advisement and have directed staff to do more research. The issue of the parking lot must also be settled.

Village Manager, Tim Wells complimented Silhan on his work. "He's really done a good job," said Wells.

Intense Rams demanding practices pay off with title

No excuses were offered for a previous week's loss to Round Lake as Grayslake prepared for Johnsburg Friday.

"We definitely picked it up. I am so happy for the seniors. This is only the fourth time in school history we have won conference," Dave Mendralla said.

The junior guard scored 30 points while Geoff Sponholtz had 25 and Jason Horvath had a season-high 17 points in an 85-72 win over Johnsburg to claim a tie for the Northwest Suburban Conference title.

"Last week, we got out hustled and that is not indicative of a Grayslake team. You could see they wanted it," Grayslake Coach Greg Groth said.

Groth praised the play of reserve Brian Fischer. Fische, a junior, scored 6 points and took the place of injured John Parr, who saw limited duty.

"We worked a lot on boxing out and the little things," Horvath said. If I get the ball close to the post, I will try and score."

The Rams' 15-win season (11-1 NWSA) certainly helps make amends for the football campaign. Horvath was a bright spot in the winless season and considers football his better sport.

Sponholtz, a six-foot-two inch center, had sparked the Rams with 4 of the home team's 9 three pointers.

"They started falling. It was nice to win the conference title at home for the fans. They have been backing us," Sponholtz said.

Johnsburg (10-10, 7-6 NWSA) Coach Jeff Lewiston thought the difference wore No. 30 in a Rams uniform.

"Dave Mendralla is a great player. He scores, goes to the basket. We had no way to stop him. He did a super job. We played man, two different zones. It does not matter what you play. He has the ability to beat us to spots," Lewiston said.

"They played better off the bench than I thought they would. That is to their credit," Lewiston said.

The Rams started the game with a collective determined look with a 16-4 run. "They made us do some things we really did not want to do. We came back and played hard against them. We made a good run at them," Lewiston said.

Sponholtz, Mendralla and Horvath led the early assault.

Johnsburg rallied for an 18-18 tie and a 20-18 lead on two Rob Fehling (14 points) free throws.

The Rams then took over. Two Horvath hoops, one a three-pointer, another on a nice pass from Todd Alfred (6 points) regained a 32-24 lead. Mendralla closed out the 19-7 Grayslake run with a basket after a Johnsburg turnover.

ACHS's Shea, Dyer garner titles, move on to sectional

Antioch High's wrestling team was consistent throughout, winning titles at 103 pounds to heavyweight and finished second with 150 points to Warren's 139 at the Waukegan regional meet.

Waukegan won the meet total with 212.5 points.

Lucas Dyer downed Grant's Jason Alex 12-7 for the title at 103 pounds.

"I was up for the match. He brought his hips up twice and I was ready. You just don't think about losing," Dyer, of Antioch, said.

Dyer brings a 24-15 record into the Barrington sectional Feb. 11 and 12.

Joe Earl of Antioch out-pointed Round Lake's Joe Miller 9-6 for third at 152 pounds.

"Joe has had a string all year of not making mistakes and has improved. Getting the first take-down is critical because it sets the tempo," Antioch Coach Ted Sieckowski said.

Chris Haag won by injury default at 189 pounds. Grant's Shawn Powers had been sick for three days, but had earned a first-round win.

Earning trips to Barrington for Warren were: Andrew Burns, who won by injury default for third at 119 pounds over Chris Petykowski of Antioch. Rod Dukowitz lost in the title at 140 by pin to Radames Berrios of Waukegan in 3:46. Dave McLellan lost 10-4 to Angeles Morales of Waukegan at the 145-pound title match.

body slam from Waukegan's Vernoe Pope at 160 and settled for second.

The meet in the East gym had surprise and controversy.

Warren's Dan Kalbfleisch's name may challenge the public address announcer at Barrington.

"I don't mind as long as they keep saying it," Warren Coach Mark Tiffany said.

Kalbfleisch, a senior, brought a sub .500 record to Waukegan, 15-17. While his performance with a fall in 3:31 over Phillip Hernandez of Waukegan for fourth may have been a surprise to outside observers, he was not.

"I expected to go to sectionals," he said.

Kalbfleisch did not wrestle until high school, and admitted he "was not any good my freshman year."

But a solid effort at the Racine-Horlick tourney turned the senior season around.

Antioch's Mike Shea and Waukegan's Danny Diaz were locked in a 1-1 struggle for two periods until the final second of the third. That is when Shea scored the winning point as time expired.

"As a heavyweight, you have to wrestle conservatively. Diaz tried to slow the match down, but Mike rose to the occasion," Sieckowski said.

"Intensity and focus," Shea said as key factors in a 30-win season. Shea, a football standout, signed a national letter of intent to play at Eastern Illinois University.

ACHS girls ousted, but may look back on year's success

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

When North Suburban Conference girls basketball coaches in the future speak of the league race, they no longer will say "Antioch and North Chicago" in the same breath.

Instead, the Sequoits will be viewed as a team to be reckoned with, thanks to an 11-15 season, 7-9 NSC, under rookie Coach Dave Woods.

"Over the past couple of years, the team was the laughingstock of the conference, winning four or five games. We turned it around and that is a testament to the hard work of the girls. With the exception of Libertyville and Stevenson, we gave every conference team a game," Woods said.

The Sequoits (11-15) had their season come to a disappointing end as a solid effort came up short in a 47-41 loss to Deerfield (11-20). The Warriors win advances the home team to a regional final clash with Libertyville and a spot in the Highland Park sectional semifinals Feb. 21.

"We controlled the tempo of the first half and were ahead 20-18 at halftime. But they controlled the tempo in the second half," Woods said.

Seniors Amy Leiber and Maline Gooch had 11 each for Antioch and junior Rachel Hauser had 10 points.

In the end, it was too much Kari Jurewicz. The Warrior scored 21 points and that, combined with Deerfield's fourth-quarter free-throws, did the visitors in.

"We did not get the job done in keeping them off the boards," Woods said.

Woods knows what his team accomplished.

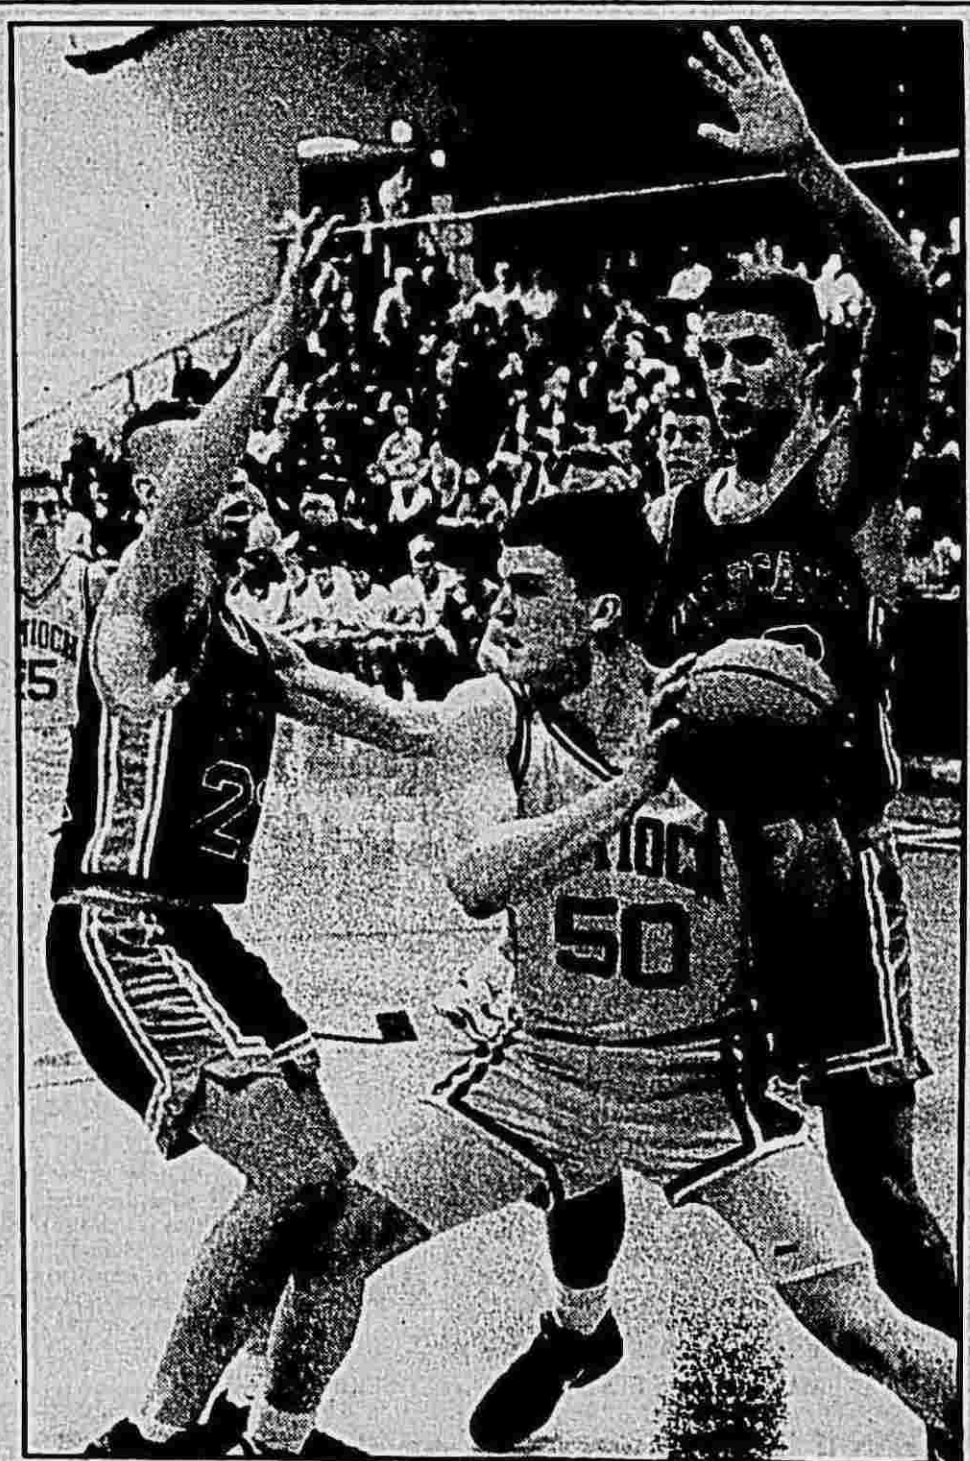

"We are headed in the right direction. Tomorrow we will start working on next year," he said.

Scott helps Foresters' relay squad

Lake Forest College's swimming teams opened the home weekend series with a split against Illinois Benedictine College. The women won 112-82, but the men lost 179-75. The next day, against Augustana College, the women lost a close one 128-112 and the men lost 129-89.

The men's team found success in the 200 medley relay against Illinois Benedictine. Chad Scott of Gurnee is a member of the relay.

Best defensive show paces Patriots to top Antioch

Stevenson High went back to basics in preparation for its North Suburban Conference clash at Antioch.

When the night was over, the Pats left the Antioch gym perhaps a little bruised but with a 59-56 win nonetheless.

"It was a good game and well-officiated. It was no more physical than any other game," Stevenson Coach Ken Johnson said.

The Pats were led by 27 points from junior Pete Ferguson.

"He is getting real consistent. He goes to the floor and plays well on both ends. He never came out of the game," Johnson said.

"We played great man-to-man defense. They never got into cinch. Our defense was so strong, they could not even set their screens," Johnson said. "It was our best defensive games of the year."

Brett Gilbert got start at one forward and guarded Eric Eckenstahler (21 points). "Gilbert is 6-0 and Eckenstahler is 6-7, but Gilbert did a heckuva job."

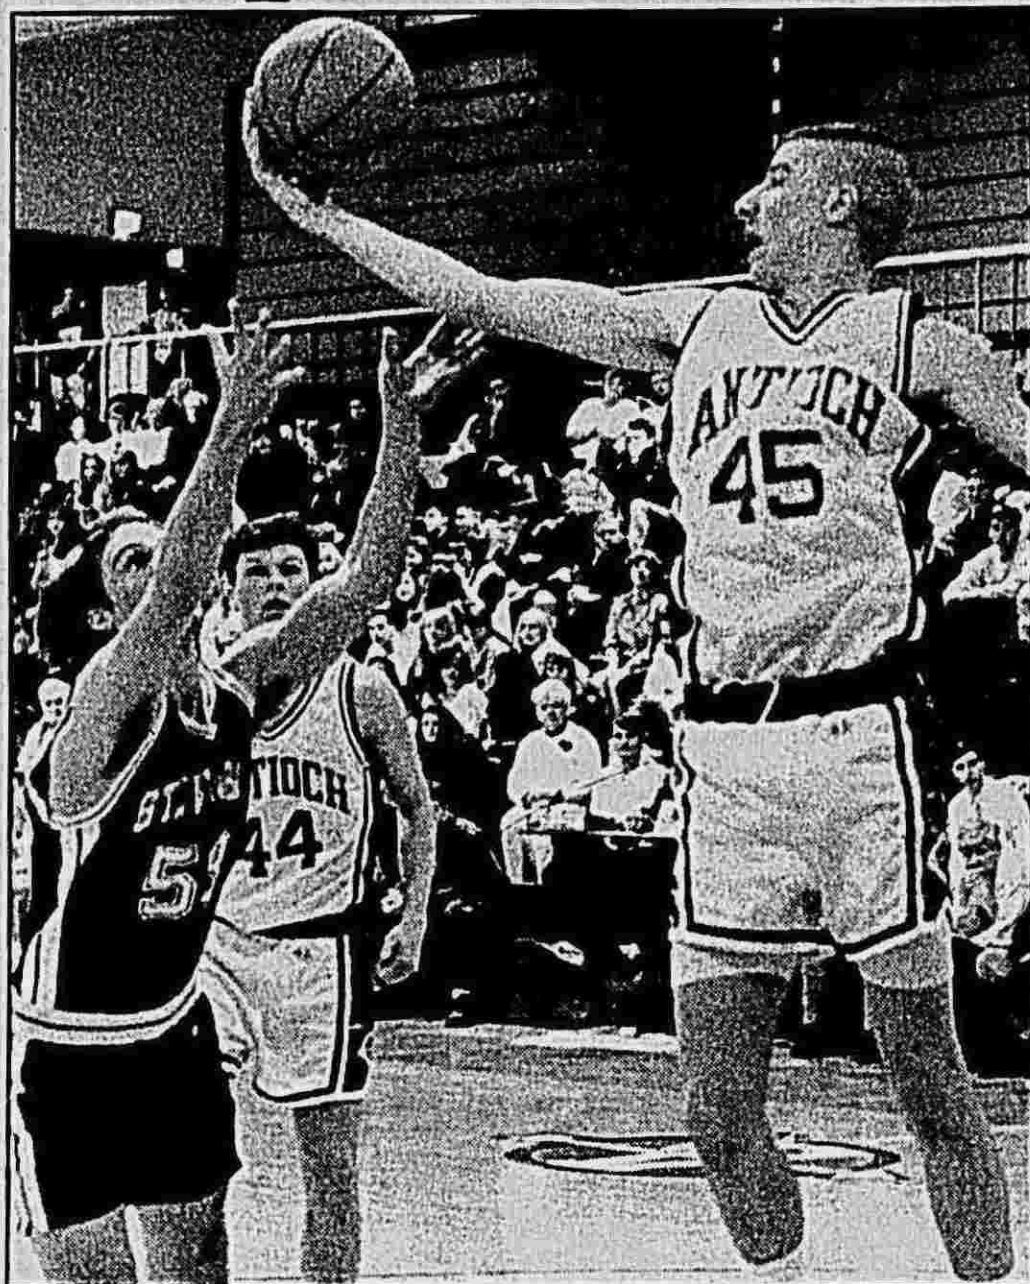

Stevenson led 18-10 after one and held back Antioch (5-19 overall, 1-13 NSC) comebacks.

Eckenstahler had 16 rebounds and 10 blocks.

"Stevenson is rough and physical and it turned into a football game," Antioch Coach Jeff Dresser said. "We played well in the second half."

Stevenson battles NSC champ Mundelein away Feb. 18. Unlike other teams, the Pats had four NSC games left when the week started.

conference champs. The Pats rescheduled a game with North Chicago due to the tragedy of a North Chicago player who died at a freshman game at Fenton.

Antioch had a double-loss weekend as the Sequoils fell at Lake Forest 61-50. The key was the end of the second quarter, when the Scouts built up an 8-point lead to 16.

Eckenstahler matched his season average and led the way with 15 points and 12 rebounds.

Antioch is at Zion-Benton Feb. 18 and Mundelein Feb. 22 in 7:30 p.m. NSC games.

"We always played Zion tough," Dresser said.

Leiber leads Antioch girls to strong finish in league

Antioch High's girls basketball team held Zion-Benton to under 10 points for three of the four quarters and gained a win to end the North Suburban Conference on a bright note.

Antioch survived 39-30 in an away win. The Sequoils (7-9, 11-14) battled Deerfield in the first round of the Highland Park sectional Tuesday.

"We had a lot of patience," Antioch Coach Dave Woods said. Amy Leiber led the Antioch effort with 16 points.

"Zion played a zone against us for three quarters until they went to a man-to-man press in the fourth. We let them back in the game. We had a good offensive game for three quarters," Woods said.

Antioch led 9-4 after one, 21-10 at halftime and 29-13 after three. But Zion, keyed by 15 points from Crystal Lewis, won the final quarter 17-9.

Antioch had concerns going into the Deerfield game. "Deerfield's size concerns me. They are a lot bigger. We will have to rely on our defensive pressure. That is what got us to this point," Woods said.

Lightning defeats Blaze

The Lindenhurst Lightning (under-12) soccer team faced the Waukegan Blaze last weekend and came away with a 4-1 win. The Lightning's tenacious defense played well the entire game, keeping things close in the first half when their offense couldn't find the net and Waukegan took a 1-0 halftime lead. the season.

Rams' Frechette has strong state

Grayslake High bowler Carla Frechette topped her season average and made a strong showing in one of the most competitive state bowling fields ever.

Frechette, a senior, overcame September surgery just to bowl this season. She had a 978 at the state meet at Rockford, good enough for 60th out of 77 individuals.

"I am very proud of her efforts," Coach Glenn Watt said.

Frechette had the foot surgery

Sept. 7. "I bowled all summer. The first couple of weeks were tough, but I bowled my best," Frechette said before state.

Frechette's best game was a 201 in a 452-526 outing. "She had a 1-2-10 split that wowed the crowd," Watt said.

Frechette, of Third Lake, is the first bowler since Kerry Caraher in 1986 to make state from GCHS.

Overall, Watt was pleased with the season with a 5-8 dual mark and Frechette's accomplishments.

"Of our 8 losses, 6 were against top 10 teams," Watt said.

Frechette's sister Carolyn will be a junior next year. Also juniors will be Christy Disch. Kristen Sieger will be back and Lisa Ring, who missed this year, may be back.

Nikki Moretti returns as a senior.

"We have to get more people out for the team," Watt said.

Grayslake girls conclude season by meeting goals

Grayslake High's girls basketball team sought to have fun as a team, gain some important individual honors and set the tone for next year in the regular season's final week.

The Rams did that, reaching 11 wins with a 56-43 win over Highland Park, dominating Round Lake in the second half and having Jennie Dunbar reach the 1,000-point plateau.

"Win or lose in the tournament, we should finish the season being a team. The last memory they should have should be a positive experience," Coach Paul Missavage said.

The Rams, though, lost to Mundelein 42-27 Monday in the first game of the Highland Park sectional for an 11-14 finish.

Dunbar capped her standout high school career with 12 points against Round Lake and 19 against Highland Park.

Round Lake led 36-10 at halftime as Felicia Sartin scored 21 points, a couple behind her average.

"We kept her off the offensive boards," Missavage said. "We played killer defense in the second half."

After Sartin's 21, the next highest was Karen Minkalis with 9.

Round Lake concluded the regular season in second place in the Northwest Suburban Conference with a 47-40 workmanlike performance against Johnsbury. Minkalis had 16, Sartin 10 and Pollard 9 in the win.

"We did not shoot the ball well, but Pollard played well," Round Lake Coach Gary Edge said.

Round Lake finishes the NWSC race at 11-4. The Rams were 8-7, tied with Johnsbury for third place.

Julie Duchane, the team's enforcer under the boards, had 10 points against Highland Park.

Jessica Corcoran had 10 against Highland Park.

Grayslake led just 13-11 at halftime, but a 23-8 third quarter run put this one in the win column.

Before the tournament, the optimist in first-year coach Missavage even had thoughts of playing No. 1 Stevenson in the regional final.

"It would be great to play them. It would show our squad how far we have to go," Missavage said.

Unfortunately, Mundelein battled Stevenson for the regional title. But Missavage may have his chance at the state's top team from Lincolnshire in the future.

Girls end season play with Pats on top

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Losing by a 97-24 margin would make any coach ponder his choice of professions, but Grant Coach John Schad had his plans set long before the Bulldogs traveled to Stevenson Monday.

"I'm retiring. I've been here 42 years and it is about time I graduated," Schad joked.

Schad had a tour of duty with the boys teams in the 1960s before returning to the sidelines five years ago to coach the girls.

"I enjoy coaching. Even with the three wins this year, I enjoyed it," Schad said.

Schad commented he has mellowed since his days guiding the boys teams.

Monday's game was a little more than a workout for the state's best girls basketball team. The Patriots showed their talents in a 32-2 first quarter then showed mercy in gaining their 28th straight win. Stevenson played for the regional title by hosting Mundelein Thursday. The winner plays Monday at the Highland Park sectional semifinal.

"It is hard to learn when you are so outclassed," Schad said.

Stevenson was led by Tamika Catchings with a career-high 31 points. Tauja Catchings had 21, Danielle Mall had 14.

"They're awesome; that's for sure," Schad said.

The Bulldogs were led in scoring by 7 from Debbie Fischer, 6 from Cindi Cook.

Mundelein advanced behind 17 points from Lindsey Prezell in earning a 42-27 win over Grayslake. Mundelein reached double figures in wins at 10-15. A 10-0 run by the home team in the second was the difference.

Jennie Dunbar led Grayslake (11-15) with 12 points.

"Our practices have been brutal," Stevenson Coach Frank Mattucci said.

He said his team ran the flow of the offense, made good passes and played great defense.

"I know how Phil Jackson felt with Michael Jordan. It is nice to go to war with the Catchings sisters. They give speed, power, quickness and scoring and it is hard to defend and attack. I just sat back and was amazed," Mattucci said.

The Pats used the game to work on defensive positioning and rebounding as well. About the only downfall the Pats, ranked No. 9 by USA Today, had was missing too many layups, the coach commented.

"We want to get better and advance and just play the game of basketball," Mattucci said.

Stevenson built up a 27-point lead against Mundelein in the regular season finale, a 57-40 win. Tamika Catchings had 23 and Tauja Catchings did not play. Katie Coleman only played half the game and Trisch DeClark (9 points) left by the middle of the third quarter. "This time (Thursday) we will stay with the starters a lot longer," he said.

Ryg, Helander vying for Lake County Clerk spot

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Two south county residents are running unchallenged for the Lake County Clerk's Office in the primary elections and will face-off in the fall elections. One is the Vernon Hills Village Clerk; the other is a Libertyville resident who is executive director of the Central Lake County Transportation Management Association.

Kathleen Ryg has been the Vernon Hills Village Clerk for the past five years and is also District III Director of Municipal Clerks of Illinois, Treasurer of Lake County Municipal Clerks and is a legislative committee member of the Illinois Municipal League.

"As a municipal clerk, I worked closely with the county clerk, and when Linda Hess decided not to run, I thought it was time to take the next step," Ryg said.

Ryg is following suit of Hess by running as a Democrat.

As an attorney with statutory law experience, Libertyville's Willard Helander said she brings with her the background necessary to understand the state statutory laws governing the county clerk's office.

"You have to understand the changes in law that will impact on how that office will manage," Helander said.

She is running as a Republican.

They both said their backgrounds will enable them to institute the federally mandated Motor/Voter law, which makes it more accessible for people to register to vote.

As a municipal clerk, Ryg said she has served as the local arm of the county clerk's office during elections.

"My experience in the election process has given me regular training in election procedures," Ryg said.

Helander said her law background will enable to better interpret the new federal voter registration law.

In addition to elections, the county clerk is responsible for being a service agency for maintaining vital records as well as tax exemption and redemption records.

"The county clerk office is customer oriented, and I will maintain that customer friendliness," Ryg said.

She also said her work with nonpartisan village trustees will better equip her to service a county board with different political backgrounds.

"I believe I can work with all county board members," she said.

Helander said her position with the Transportation

Vote-getter Beattie seeks assembly seat

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Known as a team player who headed former President Ronald Reagan's and Rep. John Porter's campaigns in the 10th congressional district, Mary Beattie now wants to take the helm.

After 25 years of getting the vote out for other local and national Republican politicians, Beattie is now seeking the vote for her own cause: The 59th State Representative District.

"We have a system of getting the vote out in Lake Forest and Lake Bluff," said Beattie, who directed 200 workers to register all voters in her district.

Her work in registering voters has earned her the reputation as one "who gets things done."

As a Republican assemblywoman in Springfield, Beattie said she would concentrate on crime, education and tax reforms.

In crime she said she would focus on preventing lifetime criminals by supporting boot camps that rehabilitate young offenders.

"It's good, healthy living. In six months they're going to have a different outlook on life," said Beattie, who has also noticed a trend from children having children to kids killing kids.

In addition, she said that building more prisons and keeping criminals in prison is a "tremendous" cost to the taxpayer.

"Prevention is what we have to do," Beattie said. "We have to prevent delinquents from going to Stateville."

She said parental participation is also necessary in halting juvenile crime. She has just completed a manuscript on family values titled "An Ounce of Prevention."

She went on to add that the state should examine Wisconsin's welfare pilot program commonly referred to as "two years and out." Under this law, people receiving welfare would have two years to find a job before their welfare privileges would be terminated.

"Within two years, you should be able to find something for yourself," Beattie said.

In education, Beattie supports Governor Edgar's tax cap on property tax increases for school districts, but she said she would investigate other avenues to fund education.

"We have to make education a priority," Beattie said.

A small business owner and an ordained deacon for the Lake Forest Presbyterian Church, Beattie has earned the Republican endorsement of five out of the six townships in her district, including Vernon Hills and Libertyville.

Mary Beattie
She was also endorsed by the Lake County Republican Central Committee, which screens all candidates.
"I will represent my people when my people speak," Beattie said. "I will vote the way my people speak."

Sierra Club endorses county candidates

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

In an unprecedented action, both the Illinois Chapter and the Woods and Wetlands Group of the Sierra Club have endorsed the following four candidates for the Lake County Board primary election on March 15. Judy Martini of Antioch (R-Dist. 1), Mildred Corder of Wadsworth (R-Dist. 2), Diana O'Kelly of Mundelein (R-Dist. 10), and Carol Calabrese of Libertyville (R-Dist. 15) have been given the nod by the club.

This is the first time that endorsements have been made at the County level in a primary election. The group feels there is a crying need for change on the Lake County board, and only Carol Calabrese is an incumbent. The group believes that there is a need to redirect the board's emphasis from development and expansion, which the club feels is detrimental to the quality of life and destroys the natural resources of the county.

According to the club, the incumbents in District 1, 2, and 10 have a proven track record of consistently supporting overdevelopment in line with the majority of the board led by Robert Depke, board chairman. Carol Calabrese, on the other hand, has been an outstanding opponent to the board's record of development.

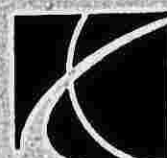

The Sierra Club sent a mail survey to all candidates and looked at past voting records, public statements, and perceived alignment or non-alignment with the current board before making the endorsements. Also, because See SIERRA CLUB page B8

At A Glance

Parcel approved by county

WARREN TOWNSHIP—A 130-acre parcel located 1/2 mile north of Route 132 was approved by a 16-5 vote of the county board. The move drew skeptics, including County Board Member Suzi Schmidt who criticized the approval of a change of zoning from countryside to suburban without a development plan and not enough sewer capacity to meet suburban standards. Millburn School District 24 officials went to the Old Mill Creek Village Board meeting seeking impact fee agreements for future development including the site. Old Mill Creek Village President Paul Koppen said the village will monitor the development and is forming an opinion on it.

Village likely to get $147,000

LAKE VILLA—The village is likely to receive $147,000 in state funds to help finance the cost of a Metra Station and improvements near the station. Lake Villa must have a station completed by April of 1995. The funds are to be divided up at $122,000 for on-site uses and $25,000 for off-site uses. The formal approval of the funds will come at the Mayoral Task Force on Feb. 18.

Board wants to cut density

LINDENHURST—The village board will be sending a message to Westfield Homes, the possible developer of the Bonner property, a 200-acre parcel on Sand Lake Road. The village is asking Westfield to cut down the density of the proposed development to what would be appropriate for R-1 zoning. Westfield had proposed to a 650-unit development.

Antioch home fire damaged

ANTIOCH—On Monday, Valentine's Day, around 2:30 p.m., the home of Howard Novak was nearly destroyed by fire. Fortunately, no one was home at time. The fire was discovered and called in by a neighbor. Firefighters from Antioch and Fox Lake battled the flames that caused approximately $80,000 in damage. Lake Villa firefighters provided coverage for Antioch during the fire.

Ducks Unlimited banquet

FOX LAKE—The Chain O' Lakes Chapter of Ducks Unlimited will host a their 11th anniversary fundraising banquet on Feb. 22 at Maravela's in Fox Lake. A $40 donation to the banquet includes dinner, membership/magazine and a chance to win a Remington 12-gauge shotgun, Model 1187. Cocktails begin at 5:30 p.m. with dinner served at 7 p.m. For tickets contact George Miller, 587-7112 or 587-6361.

Court rules for developer

MUNDELEIN—A ruling from the appellate court determined that Pasquini Homes is the owner of the sewer line installed for their intended development in 1989. The property, located at Midlothian Rd. and Rte. 176, was never developed because Pasquini would not accept the annexation requirements of the village. The line serves the Ambria subdivision in a previous agreement. Mundelein Village Attorney Charles Marino said ownership of the line is an asset as well as a liability, since the developer has the responsibility of upkeep and repair.

Channel cleanup possible

GREEN OAKS—A Chicago firm has applied for a federal permit to work on 11.9 miles of the Middle Fork of the North Branch of the Chicago River between Deerfield Rd. and Buckley Rd. in Green Oaks. According to a public notice released by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the middle fork has accumulated quantities of "debris that now, in some degree, impede the flow of the channel and depreciate the aesthetics of the area."

Vernon Hills hopes for grants

VERNON HILLS—Both the Village of Vernon Hills and Vernon Hills Township could receive substantial state grants to build two commuter train stations. The village station site will be near Rte. 45 and Deerpath, and the township site will be at Rte. 22 and Main St. in Prairie Grove. Depending on a vote by the Mayoral Task Force Feb. 18, the Village of Vernon Hills could receive $515,330, while the township could receive $145,018.

Special Educators ponder changing regulations

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

The rules of special education are changing.

Local educators will soon be getting used to a bevy of regulations from Springfield and Washington.

"Change is going to occur and it will have a rippling effect from Washington to the state and local level," Robert Abbott, a member of the state board of education, said.

Abbott, Special Education Dist. Superintendent John Anderson and Myron Dagley, associate superintendent for special education in Waukegan, addressed a gathering at SEDOL.

The regulations include a series of six "intensity levels" of service to determine staff's class size or case loads.

Parents of learning disabilities students went to public hearings to protest 40 students per class level. "They said many of them are finding it difficult to service 20 kids. You will not find 40 kids at one attendance center who need only one hour," Abbott said. "It looks like it will go down to 30 for up to one hour a day."

"As an advocate for children, I can see a lot of value in the intensity model and in an urban school district such as ours, we would increase staff. This would definitely impact positively on the side of the child and negatively on the side of the cabinet whose job it is to have a balanced budget," Danglely said.

Abbott explained to the audience that there are two broad camps in special education: conservationists and abolitionists. The abolitionists wish to change and abolish the special education system and have most if not all students in regular classes. Conservationists wish to preserve special education's current status.

Further public hearings are possible for the state regulations, which could take effect next school year.

Anderson termed the regulations "a real challenge. Limiting regulations is good. To the extent this represents a reduction, I do not see that. It is much wordier. But to the extent it takes the contradictions out, and make things clearer, I think they have done an effective job."

Anderson said there should be minimum standards consistent with what is appropriate education for children. "To set maximum standards often puts unnecessary burden on school districts who have limited resources and an attempt to apply those limited resources to 'Cadillac' programs is not what the role of regulations should be about. That is the role of local school boards to determine if they wish to go beyond what appropriate standards are," Anderson said.

He said SEDOL encourages member districts to take back their special education programs and to have more inclusive districts. "Local school districts are far superior for moderate students. There is always a role for a co-op for more severely involved students," Anderson commented.

However, he opposes radical, full inclusion. "I think it is absolutely in contrast to what is special about special education. What is special about special education is we make individual decisions about individual children. The full inclusionists say no, every child belongs in the regular classroom. That is an exremist view. An extremist view, by definition, is wrong," Anderson said.

"I like the intensity approach because it gets rid of labels," Anderson said.

He opposes having only social workers do social develop studies. He said it is too limiting. "At SEDOL, we switch off roles depending on an individual case," he remarked.

SAVE YOUR FAMILY TIME AND MONEY

Do you know what "probate" is? It is the court process by which debts are paid and assets are distributed to heirs.

What can you do now so that your loved ones can avoid the costly and frustrating probate process? You can attend a FREE ESTATE PLANNING SEMINAR and learn how a living trust can work for your family. A living trust can be defined in simple terms as a will substitute, one that allows your heirs to avoid meeting a probate judge. As the trustee (financial manager) of your trust, you can continue to do the same things you did before the trust existed, such as buy, sell, or give away the trusts' assets. You set up your living trust according to your desires. You are in complete control.

When you consider the cost of a will and the fees involved in probate, as compared to setting up a living trust, the trust is a much more reasonable choice. It saves not only money, but time. Your heirs will not have to wait six, nine, or twelve months to receive what you have left them.

In Illinois, probate is required when the assets total over $50,000. The probate process can be quite costly, reducing the amount of assets that heirs receive. Attorney's fees, court costs and executor's fees can reduce assets that go to the heirs by as much as 10%. There is also a time delay, because the minimum amount of time that an estate would be tied up in probate court in Illinois is six months, but normally probate takes nine to twelve months, and sometimes longer.

Counselors help students cope with death

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

North Chicago Community High School students are coping with the death of one of their own.

Devon Mills, age 16, died of heart failure after a freshmen basketball game in Bensenville Saturday.

"The students are doing exceedingly well," Jimmy Drew, principal, said.

Drew said school district psychologists and counselors were brought in Monday and helped the students cope.

Members of Mills family were on hand as the Warhawk freshmen played Stevenson Monday. The family was presented with a basketball, autographed by all players and a moment of silence was observed.

Drew said a memorial service is being planned.

"It is definitely a healing process which will take a little time," he said.

"It has been real difficult. I was getting ready to leave when the assistant trainer said someone from North Chicago was unconscious. He had a little pulse and no respiratory," Walter Howard, head trainer at Fenton, said.

Ron Quimby, a Fenton parent, helped with chest compressions while Howard performed mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

"It looked like he was breathing for 10 to 15 seconds. It was a slight, weak pulse," Howard said.

Mills was transported to an Elmhurst hospital, about 10 minutes away.

Mills actually began the school year at Antioch High and was a member of the frosh-soph basketball team there.

Dr. Robert Schley, superintendent, said at one time Mills became ill in practice. The teenager was later referred to Children's Baptist Home and later to a cardiologist, who advised against playing basketball.

Mills then transferred to North Chicago, where he was a reserve player.

NICC ice fishing derby, fund raiser nets a crowd

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

The 34th annual Ice Fishin' Derby and Winter Festival, sponsored by the NICC was a big success, as usual. On Feb. 12 and 13, thousands were out on the Chain for kids games, ice skating, raffles, ice bowling, carnival games, penny raffle, pony rides, ice shanty contest, an auction, food and refreshments, and, of course, the fishing.

Saturday's weather was great in the morning hours, but by 11 a.m. the snow began to fall. By 3 p.m., anglers had several more inches of snow to get through before they could find their elusive prey. Sunday was a bright, beautiful day and parking spots were harder to get than Bozo tickets over at derby headquarters, Wacz's Resort.

While no muskies were caught for the second year in a row, there were some big fish pulled out of area lakes. The largest fish of the derby was a 30.6-inch northern pike caught in Channel Lake by Tom Krueger of Antioch.

The largest fish pulled from Petite Lake was a 24.9-inch pike caught by John Krogman, while angler Krueger also snagged the biggest fish in Pistakee Lake, a 28-inch northern pike. The largest walleye was pulled in by angler Judy Constance of Antioch, a 21.6-inch.

A big bass was grabbed by Ted Freund of McHenry measuring 20.8-inches, while the largest catfish was caught by Bill Brown of Round Lake. The cat measured 24.4-inches. A giant crappie was caught by Antioch resident, Brian Paschke measuring 13.5-inches.

Peggy Rangatore of McHenry pulled in the winning bluegill measuring a whopping 9.1-inches, while the biggest bullhead was caught by angler Chris Lawrence measuring 10.8-inches. And, the largest striped was caught by Michael Hart, at 11.7-inches.

Winners of the "most interesting" ice shanty tied for first place.

Bill Clayton, Steve Stahmer, and Mark Svoboda shared the prize with Dan and Dave Bell of McHenry. Plus, the children visiting derby headquarters were all winners with the free pony rides, games, food, and excitement.

All the proceeds of the derby and festival go to the Northern Illinois Conservation Club (NICC). The club was founded in 1960 by a few sportsmen. As the numbers of member grew, the group has become more conservation oriented.

Above, Little riders Scott Franchi, age 4, of Glen Elsen led by Steve Kennamer, and Jamie Kay, age 4, of Antioch led by Teri Bartoll enjoy the free pony rides at the NICC Ice Fishin' Derby and Winter Festival. ## ComEd chief is supporting juvenile justice referendum Samuel K. Skinner, president of Commonwealth Edison, battled the wintry weather conditions to announce the electric company's support for the March 15, county-wide referendum to raise the county's property tax extension for the comprehensive improvement of the juvenile justice system in Lake County.

Skinner was the keynote speaker at an information breakfast sponsored by the Citizens for Juvenile Justice, the local Lake County group spearheading the passage of the referendum. The breakfast was attended by over sixty county corporate and civic leaders.

As the largest taxpayer in Lake County, Commonwealth Edison paid over $17.8 million in property taxes last year. In an endorsement of the improvement plan, Skinner stated: "Commonwealth Edison is a civic-minded corporation that does not just provide electricity to the citizens of Lake County. We support issues that improve the quality of life in the county. A comprehensive improvement of the juvenile justice system in Lake County is something in our opinion, which does make sense."

The elements of the Lake County Juvenile Justice Improvement Plan include: an additional courtroom to assist in easing the juvenile caseload; a 36-bed detention center; a modified boot camp for juvenile offenders, the SMART program (Structured Military and Residential Treatment); a VECTOR Day Treatment Program for 12 male and female offenders; and expanded Home Detention and Intensive Probation Services.

Voters might have the perception that their property taxes will be raised six percent by passage of the referendum, but as Skinner stated: "It should be stressed that the proposed referendum increases only the county's portion of a property tax bill. Thus, for a home with a market value of $150,000, the cost of the referendum will be $1 a month. The monthly cost to Commonwealth Edison will be closer to $7,500, but we feel a safer Lake County is worthy of this increase."

A former U.S. Attorney for the Northern District of Illinois, Skinner joined Commonwealth Edison after serving as Secretary of Transportation and Chief of Staff for former President George Bush. In November, 1993, he was appointed Chairman of the Illinois Economic Development Board by Governor Jim Edgar.

"As a U.S. attorney, fighting crime was my sworn duty. As Chief of Staff for former President Bush, we were concerned with the lack of approaches to combating juvenile crime. We're losing. We're losing. We're losing a whole generation of youth in our country. Officials in Lake County have once again offered an innovative approach to a problem that has the capacity to become quite dangerous," Skinner indicated.

Speakers are available to present information on the Juvenile Justice Improvement Plan and Referendum. Those interested in more information can contact Fred Foreman, chairman of the Citizens for Juvenile Justice at (312)360-6677.

Carmel recognizes outstanding math students with certificates

The Mathematics department at Carmel High School presents a Quarterly Mathematics Award recognizing students who demonstrate a desire to excel in mathematics. Each student is unique and brings different skills and talents to the learning process. Consequently, excellence for each individual is different.

The certificate attests to those characteristics that each student brings to the classroom environment. They include intelligence, effort, ability and, most important, a positive attitude toward learning.

Members of the mathematics department feel that this interaction with students is very positive and one of the things that makes teaching such a rewarding experience.

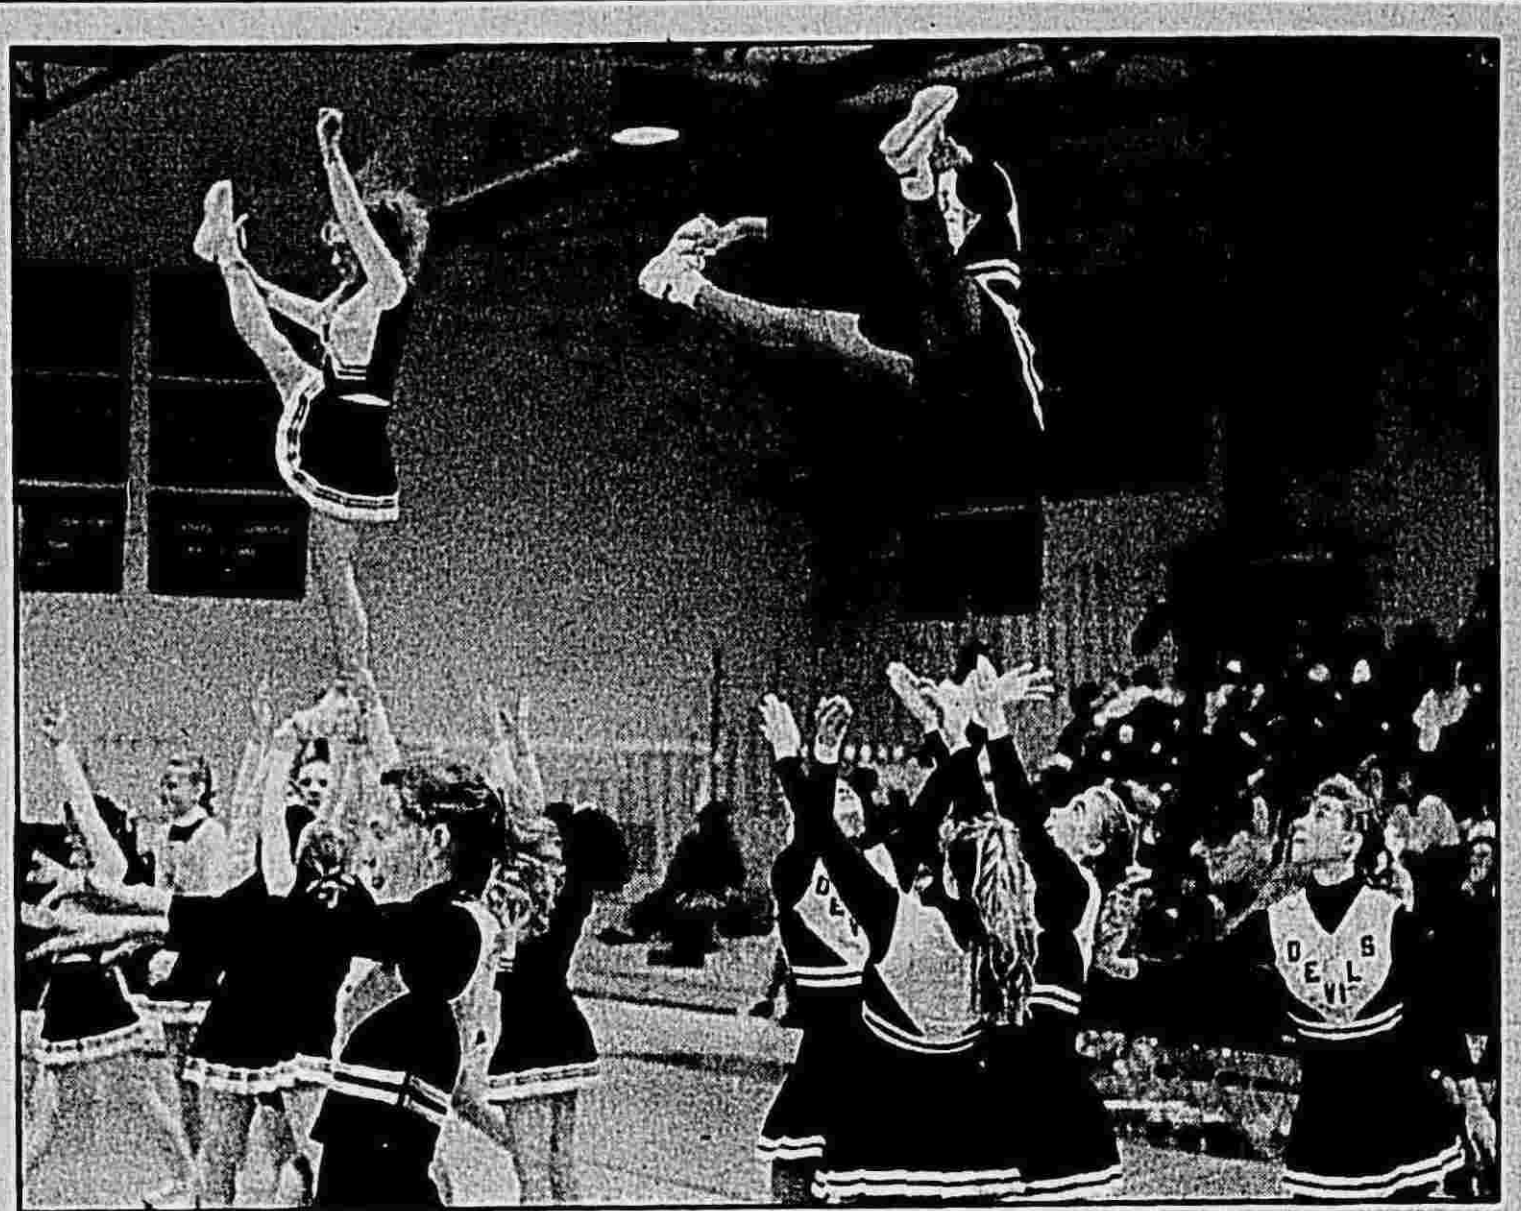

Students receiving the award for the second academic quarter are: Sonia Albarran, North Chicago; Tracy Belter, Lindenhurst; Maggie Blake, Wauconda; Regina Bruttomesso, Hawthorn Woods; Joseph Brysiewicz, Lake Villa; Erin Byrne, Vernon Hills; Jason Chilicki, Lindenhurst.

Police Chief's support referendum

The Lake County Police Chief's Association today announced their support for the March 15, county-wide referendum to raise the county's property tax extension for the comprehensive improvement of the juvenile justice system in Lake County.

John H. Ward, president of the Lake County Police Chief's Association and Chief of Police in Gurnee, stated: "The Lake County law enforcement community strongly endorses the comprehensive improvement plan for the Hulse Detention Center. Juveniles committing crimes today are not just breaking windows and leaving graffiti on buildings, they are involved with gangs, drugs and guns. This approach will provide tremendous assistance to law enforcement officials in dealing with these very serious problems."

Due to the lack of space in the detention center, juveniles are being released early from the facility to make room for those who have committed more severe crimes. "Without being reprimanded, it creates a view in that kid's mind that crime pays, so why follow the laws? This path is a dangerous one because it leads to criminal behavior as an adult, where it's usually too late for rehabilitation," Ward said.

According to Ward, intervention and rehabilitation are the key components to the juvenile justice improvement plan. "If we can provide alternatives to sending these kids to prison, where the only thing they learn is how to commit other crimes, we can make a difference in their lives. As public officials responsible for the safety of our communities, we support this approach for the simple reason it will make Lake County a safer place to live and work," Ward indicated.

The elements of the proposed plan include: a 36-bed detention center; a Smart Program (Structured Military and Residential Treatment) for 22 juvenile offenders; a 12 person Vector Day Treatment Program; expanded Home Detention and Intensive Probation Services; and an additional courtroom to assist in easing the juvenile caseload.

Ward noted, "The comprehensive approach of the plan makes it unique. The Smart and Vector Programs can provide some discipline to a juvenile's life to help them mature into responsible citizens. Expanding home detention and intensive probation services will allow us to reach out to more kids to give them some direction, while the additional courtroom and larger detention center finally address the magnitude of the growing juvenile problem here in Lake County."

The language of the referendum question may lead voters to believe their property taxes are being raised six percent. Passage of the referendum will only increase the county's share of a homeowner's total property tax bill. For a home with a market value of $150,000 the cost will be $1.00 a month. It is hoped that the voters will recognize that support for the referendum is support for a safer Lake County for every citizen.

County Clerk

are met," Helander said.

She went on to add that one of her goals as county clerk would be to update the computer system of the office.

"Other counties have made their offices more cost-effective by updating their systems," Helander said. "I think this is a priority of this county."

Ryg said in many ways she wants to continue Hess' legacy.

"I think the county clerk office has been run professionally," Ryg said. "I hope to continue that tradition."

Ryg is following Hess' footsteps by running as a Democrat in a Republican-dominated county.

"I think it's important to be a Democrat, so the two-party system is represented," Ryg said. "Being the minority is especially important in the election process."

Although Helander is Republican, she said she is not bringing a political agenda to the county clerk's office.

"As county clerk you have to follow state statutes while being a service to the people," Helander said. "This is not a way to play politics."

Sierra Club

of the dominance of Republican voters in these districts, the club felt that the primary election will determine who is elected to these board seats. That is why the Sierra Club decided to endorse candidates at the primary level.

"This is a real opportunity to start a change on the county board," said a club member in the Feb.-March newsletter. "We must start now or it will continue as it has, with more crowded schools, highways, and spaces, and with loss of our wetlands, prairie and woodlands."

The Sierra Club is urging all voters to get out there on March 15 and to join them in a grass roots effort to turn Lake County around. Anyone wishing to become actively involved are encouraged to call Gerry Rodell at 367-5676.

Carmel art students recognized

Five Carmel High School students received awards in the North Suburban Chicago Regional Scholastic Art Show. The following students received a "Certificate of Merit" for their projects: Emily Cole (two projects) from Grayslake, Amy Carpenter from Antioch, Aneta Czaja from Barrington, Mike Gricus from Wauconda, Andrew Mariani from Lake Forest. Emily Cole received a "Silver Key." Mike Gricus received a "Silver and Gold Key." His work will be sent to New York for the national judging with work from across the United States. This art work will be on exhibit at the Scholastic Art Exhibition held at Northbrook Court through Feb. 20.

CLC Board approves tuition increase

The College of Lake County board of trustees approved a proposal increasing tuition and fees for fiscal years 1995, 1996 and 1997. Under the new proposal, tuition will be raised in the fall semester of each of the next three fiscal years. The current in-district tuition of $38.10 per credit hour will increase to $41 in fiscal year 1995, $44 in fiscal year 1996 and $47 in fiscal year 1997. Additionally, the student activity fee of $1.25 per hour will be replaced by a comprehensive fee of $3 per credit hour for fiscal year 1995 and $4 in fiscal year 1996. The comprehensive fee will include the activity fee and also fund student services like parking, facilities, tutoring, registration and advisement.

The increases in tuition and fees are needed to compensate for the revenue impacts of tax cap legislation and flat or declining state funding, said CLC President Daniel J. LaVista.

"It was a very difficult decision for us to make to increase tuition and fees," said Board

Chairperson Barbara Oilschlager. "The decision was made after much discussion and approval from the student senate."

The proposal to increase tuition and fees was presented to the student senate Jan. 31 and endorsed at its Feb. 7 meeting.

In other action, the board accepted a grant of $30,000 from the Illinois Board of Higher Education's Dwight D. Eisenhower Mathematics and Science Education Program. The one-year grant will fund a training program for about 30 Lake County elementary school teachers in the use of experiments and demonstrations to teach physical science principles. CLC's physics instructor Toby Ward will direct the project, which will be held in the summer. This is the second consecutive year CLC has received this grant. Last year teachers from 22 Lake County grade schools participated in the program.

The board also discussed a proposal submitted by student trustee Jennifer Bussone requesting that the board to grant advisory voting status to the student trustee. At the conclusion of this discussion, the board postponed any action on the proposal until the March board meeting to allow its members to consider the issue further.

Continuing a policy adopted last year, the board also accepted a proposal to keep the college open five days a week this summer while allowing employees a four-day flexible work week. From 1980 until last year, employees were offered a four-day (Monday through Thursday) work week in June and July. Last year, the flexible staffing plan was adopted to keep the college open on Fridays, increasing services to students and the community.

The board also approved three contracts, totaling $33,250, with the Lake County Board to provide courses in English as a Second Language, career enhancement and General Education Development (GED) for the inmates of the Lake County jail.

VA police investigate theft ring at hospital

Secretary of Veterans Affairs Jesse Brown announced that the hard work of VA police in their investigation of alleged criminal activity at the North Chicago VA Medical Center has led to the arrest of five employees and one outpatient on theft charges.

The arrests follow last week's announcement by Brown that eight employees of the VA West Side Medical Center were relieved of their duties for their alleged participation in criminal activities.

Said Brown, "While we have uncovered another instance of alleged criminal misconduct by VA employees, I have no reason to believe that this is a systemwide problem." Brown reiterated his concern that the alleged actions of a few employees should not reflect on the hundreds of thousands of honest, hard-working VA employees throughout the country.

The arrests resulted from a VA police surveillance operation, begun last summer, that uncovered pilferage, theft and sale of government property and supplies at the North Chicago hospital. The employees and the patient are charged with selling stolen equipment and supplies.

Brown said that VA police must be vigilant in investigating every alleged incidence of wrongdoing, and he reemphasized his strong position on dealing with criminal misconduct by VA employees.

Thieves steal computers from Lakeland offices

TINA L. SWIECH

Staff Reporter

Executives at Lakeland Newspapers are shocked and appalled at the theft of three computer hard-drives from their Grayslake office.

A computer monitor propping open the composition department door didn't seem at all normal to the editor-in-chief of Lakeland Newspapers, Rhonda Vinzant when she arrived to work early on Feb. 15.

But when one of the drivers asked her if she had come in through the front door because it was left unlocked, she definitely knew something was fishy.

"We finally determined there was a theft when the composition people started coming into work and discovered the missing computers," said Vinzant.

The editor explained, after further investigation, it appeared whoever took the machines wanted to come back for more.

Besides the three Quadra hard-drives taken, some computer equipment was also gone.

General Manager Bill Schroeder Jr. said the value of the machines is $15,000.

Grayslake police are currently investigating the incident.

Absentee voting underway for primary

"Absentee voting for the March 15 Primary Election has begun in the County Clerk's office," announced Lake County Clerk Linda Hess, "and will continue through the close of business on Monday, March 14."

"If you will not be in Lake County to vote on March 15, you can obtain an absentee ballot by mail or in person," Hess said. Since this is a Primary Election, you must specify which ballot you want, Democratic, Republican, or non-partisan which contains referenda questions only—no candidates.

Questions about voting by absentee ballot or applications for ballots call Absentee Voting Division at 360-5912.

Animal Control Program seeks input

The Animal/Rabies Program of the Lake County Health Department welcomes input from the community and wants to know about areas in the County that are having problems with stray animals.

Lake County residents are urged to call 526-5336 or stop by the Animal Shelter in the Lakewood Forest Preserve (Route 176, west of Fairfield Road, two miles east of Wauconda) to discuss animal problems in their neighborhood. In areas of the County's jurisdiction, animal wardens provide early morning and evening patrols for stray animals. Complaints from areas covered by municipal agreements will be referred to the appropriate municipal agency.

Owners of dogs or cats should assure their pets are vaccinated against rabies. The Lake County Ordinance requires that all dogs and cats have a Lake County rabies tag attached to their collar at all times as proof of their vaccination status. The tags are available from the Health Department and from certain municipalities upon presentation of the vaccination certificates (obtained from the veterinarian.) Call 360-6424 for the cost of the Rabies Tag. After the vaccination is given, pet owners are allowed 21 days to register their dog or cat.

The purpose of the tag is to provide proof of the vaccination if the animal bites someone or comes in contact with a wild animal. The tag is also useful in tracing ownership if the pet is lost. The Health Department maintains a file of all registered dogs and cats. It is cross-referenced by the last name of the animal's owner and by the Lake County tag number.

State law and local ordinance requires that animal bites be reported to the Health Department. The 24 hour telephone number is 360-6424.

YMCA meets child care demand by expanding

Lake County Family YMCA is expanding its child care facilities.

The new facility is the site of a former church at 2415 N. Butrick in Waukegan. City officials, including Mayor William Durkin, were expected to be on hand for a Wednesday ribbon cutting ceremony.

"There is still a huge shortage of child care," Gussy Monks of the YMCA said.

Monks said the YMCA is the largest provider of quality child care nationally.

Feb. 21 will be the first day for the expanded child care. Up to four classrooms will be used.

Child care will be offered from 6 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. but parents may choose a part-time schedule, Monks said.

Monks said fees are very reasonable. Fees begin at $96.

Winter wonders keep us reeling

Look at it this way. As rugged and miserable as has been the Winter of '94, surviving the sub-zero blasts of January and February will give you good stories to tell your grandchildren.

With all the fretting and stewing about the Greenhouse Effect and world-wide climatic changes, a lot of folks hereabouts were confining tales about the harsh winters of northern Illinois to the history books. Not!

Now we know that the mild, snowless winters of the past several years where just interludes where mother nature lulled us into a false sense of security before unloading a genuine, cheek-searing, toe tingling, eye-watering, slush-slogging, old fashioned Lakeland winter. Those broken pipes and frozen gasoline lines haven't been miracles.

But consider the alternatives. Below zero temperatures in the double digits, arctic-like freezing rain and wind chill readings of cyboretic quality are "pieces of cake" compared to the Florida hurricane, midwest flooding last summer and the California earthquake.

OK. Worse things could happen. So Lake County residents have "enjoyed" winter like winters should be around here. Comforting is the thought that winter, no matter how harsh, always is followed by spring. We hardly can wait!

Trip costs questioned

Editor:

I feel it to be curious that Mayor Hamsher and three trustees would travel to Springfield to lobby for a casino license for the Village of Fox Lake when there wasn't any open discussion on expense accounts nor vouchers issued.

When I asked a trustee, "Who is paying for this trip?" the reply was "probably ourselves." I surely hope this wasn't the taxpayers' revenue used. In the past, trustees didn't lobby for a grant for the sanitary district as hard as they are working for this casino license.

Victim's courage commended

Editor:

I wanted to let the lady who survived the car wash ambush last October at the Shell station in Grayslake know I admire her strength. It takes a strong person to survive being beaten with a lead pipe, stabbed in the chest with a wooden stake, raped, told, "I'm going to kill you," then bound and gagged and stuffed in the trunk of your car left for dead.

Yet this women survived and lived to convict her attacker and see him sentenced to 72 years in prison. She is fortunate to have survived, yet the scares will be with her the rest of her life. I want to thank her for having the courage to face her attacker in court and see a nightmare experience to a somewhat just conclusion.

Who would think of being raped and almost murdered in a car wash by an employee of the station? Shell's slogan, "Experience the Difference," beneath their car wash signs has taken on an entirely new meaning for me.

Enemy of the arts

Editor:

As working artists we have donated many years of service to our communities in an effort to make the arts more accessible.

On March 15 an important primary election will directly influence the future of art organizations, artists as well as those who appreciate art.

Rep. Phil Crane wants to destroy the National Endowment for the Arts (N.E.A.). This organization is given an extremely modest budget by the government to promote the arts. Although it does fund many individual artists, it also sends grant money to arts groups throughout this nation in music, dance, theater and many forms of cultural enrichment.

Phil Crane's aggressive attack on the arts has been relentless. He seems to need an enemy and he has trained his attack gun on the art communities of this nation. He doesn't seem to understand that grant dollars spent in a community also contribute to its economic health.

Gary Skoien is an enthusiastic supporter of the N.E.A. In the state of Illinois he was the executive director of the Capital Development Board from 1983-1991 and as such he oversaw its Art in Architecture Program. He seems to understand that art and culture are the measure of a great society.

We urge everyone to consider the negative impact Phil Crane can have on not only this voting district but the whole nation.

Viewpoint

Volunteers offer hope for abused

BILL SCHROEDER

Publisher

Voluntarism may turn out to be the pathway to rhyme and reason in the hodge-podge way society is dealing with abused and neglected children.

Our juvenile justice system is overwhelmed by the enormity of the problem of children at risk because of uncaring parents—1,000 cases in Lake County last year—and the vaunted Illinois Dept. of Children and Family Services has been revealed as a high priced bunch of bureaucratic bumbler.

Saturday, Feb. 19, the first group of CASA (Court Appointed Special Advocate) volunteers will complete their third and final session of training, 40 hours in all, preparing them for the role of non-paid advocates for children at risk.

Officially, the 50 CASA volunteers will be "guardians ad litem," a position with legal standing, possibly the only person in the world with the best interests of an unwanted and unloved child at heart. "Quite a job; quite a responsibility," exclaims Diane Friese, a DePaul University adult learning counselor who is director of the new Lake County CASA which operates under the jurisdiction of the Lake County Juvenile Court system.

When they begin their duties Monday, each of the volunteers will be assigned a child whose case they will stay with until there is a resolution, like placement in a foster home or an assignment with relatives.

Friese, who began putting the CASA program together here last October, says volunteers come from all walks of life, although "most of them are moms." In the first group of trainees, 75 percent were females with children. Every effort is made to match volunteers and children along sex and ethnic lines.

Thorough background checks are made, Friese pointed out, especially any connection the adult might have had with any kind of prior child abuse.

Friese and the newly formed Lake County CASA board of directors were overwhelmed with the response to the initial call for volunteers. The first call greatly exceeded space for the original class taught by Sue Veatch, the other paid member of the CASA team that has a $40,000 budget. Another class will be formed.

Maybe we're on to something with volunteers. As Friese put it, "There are a lot of sensitive people out there who care about what happens to children."

HAPPY BIRTHDAY—Friends and family came from near and far (a cousin came from Greece) to help William "Bill" Govas celebrate his 65th birthday at a gala party arranged by his wife, Chris, at their landmark restaurant, the Country Squire.

A black and gold color scheme was the backdrop for an evening of dinner, dancing and toasts to Bill, who lived his childhood in war-torn Greece, immigrated to the U.S. in time to be drafted into the army during the Korean War and started on the arduous pathway to success as a restaurateur when he became a civilian—and married his lifemate.

Chris billed the elegant event as a "royal tribute to a royal man." One of the touching moments of the evening came when guests rose and sang "America the Beautiful" and "God Bless America" in tribute to Bill.

Neal has eclipsed octogenarian Recorder of Deeds Frank Nustra and the late County Supt. of Schools

LETTERS TO THE Editor

Conservative label misplaced

Editor:

Peter Fitzgerald calls himself a "can-do" conservative. His voting record is more like a "cannot" conservative. Can-do means just what it says; can-do, can-vote and can-represent. The state senator's voting record on taxes, gun control and various other conservative issues prove that he cannot represent the conservatives in the Eighth Congressional District.

The voters in this congressional district recognize that the true motivation of this "can-do" conservative is money. And we all know that money cannot buy an election! What continues to win elections is honest voting records that represent the views of the people.

The only thing that Mr. "Can-do" has proven to the voters is he can flaunt money. Voters in the Eighth Congressional District should not elect Mr. Can-do to Congress but should elect to give him a new name. Mr. "Money Can-Do Everything."

Ladd's road trip gets bogged down

Metra Chairman Jeff Ladd walked into a barrage of good-natured ribbing when he arrived late at the Country Squire for a cocktail party in his honor.

"You should have taken the train," Ladd was advised by supporters as he made the rounds with updates on his bid for the Republican nomination for attorney general in the March 15 primary.

Ladd took the raspberries in stride, explaining that north-bound traffic on the Edens was heavy and that his chauffeur (Ladd's son) was trying to "make Grayslake on fumes. We had to take time to buy gas."

Keen-eyed political observers say Ladd is running on high octane in a head-on collision with State's Atty. Jim Ryan of DuPage County. They're giving the Crystal Lake attorney an edge in what could be the primary's closest race.

"We're going to win this one," promised Ladd, who's finding that his ideas of leading the fight for stiffer penalties for major law-breakers is playing well with voters. No more low-profile township legal opinions and environmental pattie-cakes from the AG's office if Ladd gets elected.

Chairman opening—A decision by redoubtable Republican Jack Diamond to step down as Waukegan Township GOP chairman has precinct captains in the county seat scurrying to find a replacement. "It's wide open," observed committeeman Bill Snodgrass. Diamond isn't retiring. Just going to slow down.

Southern roots—Willard Helander, Republican candidate for county clerk, isn't shy about drawing on her Tennessee heritage to establish her party credentials. Her family is close to former U.S. Senator Howard Baker from the Volunteer State. Baker is the son-in-law of the great orator from downstate Pekin, Everette McKinley Dirksen, who served with distinction in the House and Senate more than a quarter of a century ago.

Knowing Baker's relationship to a famous Republican, Helander said she always made sure as a youngster that there was a healthy stand of marigolds in the family flower garden. Dirksen loved marigolds.

Good company—In politics, success can be traced to the company you keep. That's why Congressman Phil Crane believes the Lake County Farm Bureau building on Rte. 45 near the Fairgrounds is an excellent spot for his Lake County campaign headquarters.

The spiffy new office is being staffed by Tepper

Wendy Tepper of Grayslake and Elsie Ryder of Gurnee, two Crane regulars who know their way through political minefields. The welcome mat is out or call Wendy or Elsie at 223-2690.

Free trip—County Board Rep. Bob Neal and his wife have an all-expenses paid trip to Springfield courtesy of State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis, who donated a tour of the State Capitol for two as a prize at an American International Hospital benefit auction. Neal was the winning bidder.

"I couldn't pass that one up,"

Neal related. "I've been in Springfield 50 times, but never with Geo picking up the tab," remarked a jubilant Neal.

Low budget—Diana O'Kelly isn't ashamed to admit that she's running on a shoe string in her race to unseat County Board Rep. Colin McRae in a Mundelein area district in the March 15 Republican primary.

"I won't say that money is short, but a $15 check in the mail makes my day," laughed O'Kelly. "That check tells me that someone cares." The former businesswoman and mother of two small children is hitting hard on McRae's spotty committee attendance and his pro-development voting record.

"McRae votes against the people," declares O'Kelly. "In fact, my opponents voting record stinks." O'Kelly doesn't want to be known as a "shrinking violet" in her first attempt at elective office.

O'Kelly.

Evading cap on taxes

Editor:

County officials are aware that an upgraded juvenile facility is a worthwhile cause and a perfect lever to gain voter approval to sidestep the property tax cap. We have many, many more issues at hand that can be addressed by other taxing bodies in a similar fashion. To name a few, school overcrowding, traffic congestion, upgrading infrastructure and I could go on and on.

The fact of the matter is, all of these problems are brought about by accelerated development and a lack of reasonable developer impact fees. Land investors and developers profit from the lack of impact fees and the taxpayer is left holding the bag, as documented by the lack of funds and the continual escalating rise in property tax.

I, for one, will not vote for another property tax increase, nor will I support a .04 cents a gallon gasoline tax until the county successfully pursues state legislation for higher developer impact fees and enacts it.

Other areas for Grainger

Editor:

We moved here because of the beauty Lake County has. The open space, the wild animals roaming free and believe it, the stars. After moving here eight years ago we have constantly watched the Vernon Hills area grow too fast and out of control. Here is a big corporation, Grainger, that can go anywhere in the Lake County area already zoned for office space and it picks an area of great beauty and great concern to the citizens as myself who live in this area.

There are so many empty office buildings standing ready to be filled and yet they still want to build more. It will bring so much traffic to Rte. 60 and Bradley Road and all the other joining roads. Have you ever been on Route 60 at 4:30 or 5:30 p.m.? It is not a pleasure to be sitting bumper to bumper, traffic light to traffic light. With all the new traffic comes more pollution, noise and less wildlife, crime and what about sanitation?

It seems the Zoning Board members and Planning Commission members of Lake County forget who elected them. We the people, are the only ones that can remove them from office, if they do not watch what's best for the citizens that elected them. We have pleaded with them, written to them and showed up at meetings against Grainger. Now it is time for them to vote. We will all see who cares for the people and their own jobs.

Miscellaneous expenses can add up to a tax deduction

You can't afford to overlook any miscellaneous expenses you incurred this past year. The Illinois CPA Society points out that these expenses may add up to a valuable tax deduction on your 1993 tax return. Miscellaneous expenses include unreimbursed employee business expenses, job-hunting costs, costs associated with the production of income, as well as tax-return preparation fees. Here's what you should know about these and other miscellaneous expenses.

Allowable deductions

If you itemize on your tax return, you may deduct miscellaneous expenses that exceed two percent of your adjusted gross income (AGI). Taxpayers with AGIs over $108,450 ($54,225 if married filing separately) face another limitation: They must reduce the total of their itemized deductions (excluding medical expenses, investment expenses, casualty and theft losses, and gambling losses) by three percent of the amount by which their incomes exceed these limits.

As an employee, you can deduct miscellaneous business expenses that are "necessary" and "ordinary" for your job. This means that you must demonstrate to the IRS that your employer expected or required you to incur these expenses.

Other qualified miscellaneous expenses may include union dues, dues to professional organizations, subscriptions to professional journals and magazines, and work clothes and uniforms.

You may also deduct educational expenses, including tuition, books, supplies and lab fees, as long as the educational program is necessary to maintain or improve your present work skills or is required by your employer or the law to keep your present job.

Unreimbursed travel, transportation and 80 percent of business entertainment costs are also deductible on your 1993 tax return, subject to the two-percent floor. Strict tax rules apply, so be sure to check with a tax advisor. Also, be aware that beginning in 1994, only 50 percent of employees' unreimbursed business meals and entertainment costs will qualify as miscellaneous expenses.

Job-hunting expenses

You can fully deduct expenses associated with looking for a job in your current line of work. These can include costs of preparing resumes, assembling a portfolio of your work, as well as traveling to and from job interviews. Keep in mind that if you recently lost your job as a construction worker and decide to pursue a sales career, your job-hunting costs are not deductible.

That's because the tax law does not allow a deduction for costs associated with looking for a job in a new line of business.

Investment-related expenses

Qualified miscellaneous expenses also include costs associated with the production or collection of income or for maintaining income-producing property. For example, if you seek advice from an investment advisor about your securities portfolio, the fees you pay to the advisor are deductible.

In addition, you can deduct annual fees paid to a bank or another custodian of your Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and Keogh plan, as long as the fees are paid with funds separate from your contributions to these plans.

Fees to rent safe deposit boxes that are used to store investment-related documents are also considered miscellaneous expenses.

Additional miscellaneous expenses

If you hired a CPA or another tax professional to provide tax or estate planning assistance, you can deduct the costs you paid for such advice. Similarly, you can deduct the costs you paid for advice in connection with the preparation of a will or trust.

Finally, be aware that in most situations, costs incurred to hire a tax advisor to prepare your income tax return, to advise you on making a claim for a tax refund, or to appear with you in tax court are also considered qualified miscellaneous expenses.

The biggest lies about IRAs

By now, most people have received all their tax information in the mail and are making arrangements to see their tax advisor. Just when you thought you understood the rules, the IRS changes them. I have a feeling that this year's trip to the accountant will be a real eye opener for most people.

Most of us are looking for new ways to shelter our money from Uncle Sam.

Myth number one: Because I cannot deduct my IRA contribution I should not make an IRA contribution.

The main advantage for making a current year IRA contribution is because you get years and years of tax deferred compounding. Look at the difference: For individuals in the 28 percent tax bracket, a $2,000 taxable investment at 8 percent interest in 30 years would be worth $10,732; a $2,000 tax deferred investment at 8 percent interest in 30 years would be worth $20,125.

As you can see from the above illustration, there is almost a $10,000 difference between your taxable and tax deferred investment. This is a big difference, yet I constantly hear, "I did not make an IRA contribution because it was not fully deductible." Forget the deduction and make your contribution.

Myth number two: Because I can only deduct a portion of my IRA contribution, I cannot make a full contribution.

Always make your full IRA contribution so you have as much as possible going into your tax deferred account. The limit is $2,000 annually for each wage earner (100 percent of compensation if earnings are less than $2,000), or $2,250 total in IRA for a married couple with only one wage earner.

Myth number three: I make too much money. I cannot deduct any of my IRA contribution.

As long as you or your spouse are not active participants of a tax qualified plan through your employer, you may take a full deduction no matter what your income.

You may also take a full deduction if your adjusted gross income is less than $25,000 for single filers and $40,000 for joint filers. If you are a single filer with AGI less than $35,000 or a joint filer with AGI less than $50,000 and you are covered by a tax qualified plan, you may still make a partial deduction.

Myth number four: It does not pay to make an IRA contribution because interest rates are too low at the bank.

Most people think that an IRA is something you have to get at the bank. An IRA is merely a classification for your money. You can invest your money in many different instruments.

Think of your IRA as your garage. The vehicle you park in your garage is sheltered from the IRAs. You can park many different types of cars in your garage. When you are young you may want to use a fast car, such as a Corvette. When you get older, a Corvette may be too fast and you may want to park a much safer, more reliable car such as a Volvo.

This analogy holds true with your investments. When you are young and have time to ride out the business cycles, you may want to consider an aggressive growth fund. As you get closer to retirement and the business cycles make you nervous, you may want to consider a government bond fund.

It pays to consider your investment carefully because picking a vehicle that is too conservative could lose you thousands of dollars in lost compound interest.—by ROCH TRANEL, Money Concepts, Libertyville

Know tax benefits gained after disaster loss

Your personal loss could turn into a tax gain. If you've had a casualty—damage, destruction or loss of property resulting from an identifiable event that is sudden, unexpected or unusual—your loss from that casualty may be deductible on your tax return.

Generally, to figure your loss, you will have to make a list of your property that was damaged, lost or destroyed. Then determine the value of the property before and after the casualty. Usually, the difference between these two values is the amount of the casualty loss. The loss is deductible on the return for the year the casualty occurred.

If the loss happened in an area that the President of the United States declares eligible for federal disaster assistance, and you can deduct the casualty loss on your federal income tax return, you have a choice when to deduct the loss. You can file an amended return to deduct the loss on your tax return filed for the year immediately preceding the year of the casualty. Or, if you choose, you can deduct the loss for the year the casualty actually occurred.

Kirk Players welcome back enthusiastic member

SUZIE REED

Staff Reporter

The spring production of the Kirk Players will be extra-special with Pat Cline of Mundelein back in the fold. "Breath of Spring" is scheduled for 8 p.m. March 4 and 5 in the Mundelein High School auditorium.

Cline will play Hattie, part of an "over-the-hill" gang of fur thieves who steal from those "perfectly able to afford it" and donate the profits to those who need them more.

First joining the Players in 1970, Cline recalled, "When my boys were little, I had gone to see a production and decided I was going to try this. I was in several shows and I loved it, especially the back stage work."

Her Kirk credits include "Mrs. McThing," "You Can't Take It With You," and her official debut in "The Curious Savage." She received a "Leslie" in 1973, the Players' highest honor, when her fellow actors voted her Most Valuable Player for the season.

Her duties were not only on stage, but behind the scenes as well. She served as costume coordinator, stage manager and house manager in various Kirk productions.

As her children grew, Cline was involved in so many of their activities she found it difficult to make time for the Players. "My priority was my family," she said, explaining her need for "time off." In 1974 Pat became an "honorary member" of the Kirk Players, not active in the productions, but still an important member of the Kirk "family."

Director John Lynn was delighted when he was able to convince Cline to return in an active role. "We are as happy as we can be to have Pat back," he said. "She is an enthusiastic actress and a delightful lady. Her performance in 'Breath of Spring' may surprise a lot of people—she's wonderful!"

"It was a time in my life I just thought I'd like to go back," she said. "They're very special people, just like family. I'm thrilled with having this character part."

Joining Cline in this romp are Paddy Lynn of Mundelein, Johanna Thomson of Vernon Hills, Janet Walker of Third Lake and Fred O'Donnell of Grandwood Park as the "gang" leader. Completing the cast are Linda Miller of Mundelein as the maid and Patrick Blake of Libertyville and Gary Gunther of Mundelein as the policemen.

The event is sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Lake County. Tickets, available at the door, are $5 for adults, $3 for students, and $2 for senior citizens and children under 12. For more information call 566-6594.

Artist brings watercolor inspiration to schools

SPENCER SCHEIN

Staff Reporter

Many school districts cut art programs as a first defense in dealing with financial strains, leaving children with limited avenues of creative exploration. Seeing this, Carol Keene has combined her love of watercolor painting with teaching its properties to become an artist in residence.

Keene, 46, visits between 15 to 20 schools a year, about 25 percent within Lake County, as a special art program provided by the local Parent Teacher Organizations and Associations.

Surprisingly, she did not plan out her career in art from the get-go, only learning of her desire to paint while a chemistry major at college.

"I just didn't feel it was my strong suit," Keene said. "I painted for pleasure, but I didn't know anything about it."

After taking several evening classes and teaching herself most of what she knows today, Keene started painting, but only combined the school activity three years ago at the urging of a friend.

"I was asked by a friend to come talk to her daughter's school and she set up the whole program and made all the arrangements," she said.

"It was so popular, another school asked me, (and) then it was by referral."

Her residence travels have taken her to Michigan, to inner city schools and those in the western suburbs, and in Mundelein, Buffalo Grove, Long Grove and Lake Zurich.

Her next appearance is at Seth Paine Elementary School in Lake Zurich the week of Feb. 21.

"This year, I went to a showcase to get booked by schools in the area, and that has been very successful."

"Within (Lake Zurich Unit) District 95, I get a lot of referrals," she said. "I like that, because it's based on (them) knowing, rather than wondering (about my work)."

Her program consists of her painting a picture for every classroom in the school during a 30-minute session, with the painting based on the students' questions, answers to her questions and their suggestions. She will talk about the art of using watercolors to make a picture, and go into the history of the paint brush.

She usually picks on the student who has been silent throughout the program to name the painting, which she leaves behind. "Each class gets an original painting by Carol Keene with their input," she said.

Keene makes a practice of volunteering her services at one school each year where an art program is needed but cannot be afforded.

Her services have even been bought by a Northbrook school and donated to an inner city school as a gift.

"Those children really needed to know about art," she said.

While mostly attending elementary schools, Keene said she will talk with seventh- and eighth-graders, but stays away from high schools, as they are probably learning about painting in class.

She also teaches two adult watercolor painting

classes in the Buffalo Grove Park District, where she lives with her husband, Bill, and two of four children, Sara, 12 years old, and Adam, 9 years old, as well as another private class on the side.

Most of her students are women who were told they should find another, more financial worthwhile career.

"I teach the things that most other watercolor teachers don't teach," she said. "I expose the myths and the difficulty with water colors."

"I show how to make it easy to do."

One of the more interesting areas she paints is on household walls, adding seascapes to windowless rooms, or adding a locker room scene in a child's bedroom, with a door opening to a gymnasium with a basketball game being played, or drinking fountains sprouting water.

The children's murals are all based on the child's possessions, and include many in the final, realistic looking painting.

Keene is also the founder of the Lake-Cook Water Color Society, which will celebrate its first anniversary this month and has 40 members, 70 percent from Lake County.

For information contact Keene at 459-0728. Brochures on the artist in residence program are available.

Where In The World Is Playa del Carmen?

by JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT
NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

You've decided to take the cruise you've always dreamed about. A western Caribbean cruise with stops at Ocho Rios and Grand Cayman sounds good. But the brochure shows a stop at Playa del Carmen. Playa del what??

Playa del Carmen is actually the closest port to Mexico's famous beach resort of Cancun, Mexico. It's also a short ferry ride across from Cozumel, an island well known by divers around the world.

This quaint Mexican town is also ideally located for excursions to archaeological sites like the Mayan ruins in Tulum and Chichen Itza.

If you want to do some shopping, take the Cancun city tour. A four hour tour should run about $30 and will include stops at the town markets. However, since it's easy to find your way around in Cancun, I'd suggest taking the shuttle offered by most ships for about $10 and go it on your own.

Of the many excursions to Mayan ruins, I would suggest a tour to the walled city of Tulum. Located about 35 miles south of Playa del Carmen, Tulum is perched on a 40 foot cliff overlooking the Caribbean. A climb to the top of one of the temples will give you an unforgettable view. Most tours to Tulum also include a swimming stop at a lovely lagoon called Xel Ha (pronounced "shell-ha"), where fish are so tame they will eat out of your hand.

If you're a diver, Cozumel is where you want to spend the day. With over two dozen reefs and hundreds of wrecks, Cozumel has something for every diver's interest. My personal favorite dive spot is Palancar Reef just off the south shore. Here you'll find visibility up to 200 feet and some of the most spectacular coral formations in the Caribbean.

Finally, don't be confused if your itinerary shows only a one hour stop in Playa del Carmen and continues on to Cozumel. If you get off here you will be shuttled across the bay later to meet your ship in Cozumel.

So the problem with stopping in Playa del Carmen is not, "Is there anything to do?" but which of the many options do you choose.

CRITIC'S CHOICE

Wisdom Bridge Theatre presents 'To Kill a Mockingbird'

Joel Daly, Liesel Pritzker Bagley, and Monica McCarthy in the Wisdom Bridge Theatre's production of Harper Lee's "To Kill a Mockingbird."

Harper Lee's Pulitzer Prize-winning tale of racial tension in the 1930s deep south is recreated by a huge, 31-member cast at

and dedicated lawyer.

It's the familiar, well-worn story (first published in 1960) of a black man wrongly accused of making advances on a young white woman. And it is seen through the eyes of the lawyer's daughter, Scout, who ultimately learns about the value of ideals and how life is more complicated than winning or losing a case.

Daly comes off as sincere and mild-mannered, although his performance lacks real fire. Liesel Pritzker Bagley, as his daughter, is the best of the three children in the play, the others tending to overact. Monica McCarthy, as the grownup alter-ego version of Scout, lends balance.

Pancho Demmings, facing trumped-up charges, cringes and quakes at his trial while Dale Westgaard, as the evil Bob Ewell, exudes spite. The unseen (until the very end) neighbor, Boo Radley, played by David Charles, is a potent, eerie force.

Kevin Rigdon maximizes the theater's tight stage with a workable mockup of a village street—with the middle house deftly converting into the town jail and, later, the judge's perch in the courtroom.

"To Kill a Mockingbird" runs through March 31. For ticket information: (312)743-6000.—by TOM WITOM

Good Food

'From an Italian Garden'

CLAUDIA M. LENART

Regional Editor

Italian food is always popular. But beyond, spaghetti, lasagna, and fettuccine, there is a wealth of delicious Italian specialties.

Cookbook author Judith Barrett traveled throughout Italy exploring the foods of different regions and collected and developed more than 200 healthful dishes. She put them into 'From an Italian Garden,' which is not only a resource for lovers of Italian cuisine, but also for vegetarians.

Although many of the recipes may be best prepared with vegetables and herbs fresh from the garden, most of the ingredients can be found at the supermarket year round.

Here is a sample recipe that can be prepared any time of the year.

Risotto with Asparagus and Roasted Yellow Pepper

2 tablespoons pure olive oil
1 medium yellow bell pepper, cored, seeded and sliced into 4-inch strips kosher salt

1/2 cup dry white wine
6 1/2 cups hot broth
1/2 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese

1/2 pound skinny asparagus spears, trimmed and cut diagonally into 2-inch lengths
7 tablespoons unsalted butter

1/2 cup chopped onion
2 cups uncooked Italian short-grain rice (Arborio, Vialone, or Carnaroli)

Preheat the oven to 450 degrees. Pour 3 tablespoons of olive oil into a small baking pan and place the strips of pepper in the pan. Turn them around a few times to be sure they are coated with oil. Lightly sprinkle with salt and place in oven. Roast about 15 minutes until they begin to brown. Transfer to a small bowl and set aside.

Put the asparagus in a small saucepan with just enough water to cover over medium-high heat. Bring to a boil and cook for 5 minutes until the asparagus is just tender. Drain, refresh under cold water and set aside.

Combine 3 tablespoons of the butter with the remaining oil in a heavy 4-quart saucepan or casserole over medium-high heat. Add the onion and cook, stirring about 3 minutes, until it begins to soften. Add the rice and stir well, using a wooden spoon to combine. Add the wine all at once and cook, stirring, until it is mostly absorbed, about a minute or two.

Begin to add the broth, about 3/4 cup at a time, stirring well until each addition of broth has been absorbed. Continue to add the broth stirring well until the rice is tender but firm, al dente, about 20 minutes.

Turn off the heat, add the asparagus, one last addition of broth, the remaining butter and the Parmesan and stir until the cheese melts and is incorporated into the rice. Garnish with the roasted pepper and serve immediately.

Gere, Stone outshine story

Richard Gere

It's hard to believe that a film featuring two of today's top stars, Richard Gere and Sharon Stone, could be anything but an enjoyable hit.

Remember the old assume adage - so don't.

Gere looks as gorgeous as ever and flashes that captivating style all over the place while he's trying to decide between his wife and his girlfriend in "Intersection."

His performance seems a little confused, as if he really didn't know why he was there. And never for one moment does he come into believing he's a well-known architect.

This is a different kind of role for Stone, since she's almost completely covered in all the scenes as Gere's wife of 16 years. Nonetheless, that girl's heavy on the sexuality, despite this blah star trap.

As far as the girlfriend is concerned, played rather inanely by Lolita Davidovich, the role could probably have been done more interestingly by several other young actresses.

The most disappointing part of this picture is that its writers, Marshall Brickman and David Reiff, are capable of doing better storylines than this in their sleep.

Here is a situation where flashbacks done too abundantly botch up what plot there is and only serve to produce a hodge-podge.

All in all it looks like Gere's latest vehicle is more for home videos and it will probably clean up in that market just on the strength of the stars alone.

We'll give it a 2.5 out of five stars just because it isn't the worst way of spending an evening.—by GLORIA DAVIS

Bowen Park Theatre presents Bolt's 'A Man For All Seasons'

Bowen Park Theatre Company's mid-season presentation is the award-winning masterpiece "A Man For All Seasons" by Robert Bolt. This beautifully crafted, ageless play about heroism and treason opens Friday, March 4 and runs through March, Fridays and Saturdays at 8 p.m. There is a 3 p.m. Sunday matinee on March 20 and a 7:30 p.m. performance on Thursday, March 24. All performances are in Goodfellow Hall at the Jack Benny Center, Bowen Park, 39 Jack Benny Dr., Waukegan. Tickets are $12/$10. Group rates are available. Call 360-4741 for information and reservations.

"A Man For All Seasons" celebrates the life of the illustrious Thomas More, Lord Chancellor of England under Henry VIII, and traces the true story of his stormy relationship with the King and its shattering consequences. Brilliantly dramatized by Robert Bolt, history is not only examined, but illuminated by vivid characterization. With humor, intellectual understanding and emotional honesty, the author portrays a personality whose engagement with family, friends and associates resonates through the centuries with relevant questions about individual conscience and social responsibility. This is a theatrical treasure, transforming history to the present moment, stirring hearts and minds.

The Broadway production received the highest critical acclaim and won garlands of awards for writing, acting and directing. Howard Taubman, critic for the New York Times, wrote "...it is not only about a man for all seasons but also about an inspiration for all time." The movie version won six Oscars including Best Actor (Paul Scofield, who also starred on Broadway), Director, Picture and Screenplay. Bolt also wrote the award-winning screenplays for "Doctor Zhivago" and "Lawrence of Arabia."

Bowen Park Theatre Company's Artistic Director, Mark Heller is directing "A Man For All Seasons." Heller recalls seeing the play for the first time as a senior at Evanston Township High School. I was electrified. Heller wonders why the play is "rarely done." Perhaps, because it provides so many challenges on so many fronts, especially acting. Heller is unequivocal in his praise for the talented cast he has assembled, "They are exemplary. Exemplary in every way."

Patrick Kerr of Antioch portrays Thomas More, the central figure in the drama, a brilliant lawyer, scholar, and wit, known as "a brightness in his time." Kerr received critical acclaim for his portrayal of Foxwell J. Sly in "Sly Fox." Kerr's many roles in regional theatre include "Dracula," "Wait Until Dark," "The Runner Stumbles," "Arsenic and Old Lace," and, last season at Bowen Park Theatre, Walter Burns in "The Front Page." Kerr teaches Drama/Theatre at Grayslake Middle School.

The role of The Common

Man, a charming rogue, is played by Ron Scot Fry of Kenosha. The Common Man chronicles the story, taking on a variety of characters, including a boatman, jailer and foreman of the jury. Fry is the Artistic Director of the Midwest Children's Theatre and the Bristol Renaissance Faire.

The cast includes two more actors, on a seasonal break from the Bristol Renaissance Faire: Tim Scott Ferguson of Kenosha as the conniving, ominous Cardinal Wolsey; and Pattie Lahey of Wheeling as Catherine Anger, a character with problems that are relevant today.

John Gibbons of Chicago plays the sly and sinister Thomas Cromwell whose machinations determine More's fate. Gibbons starred recently in "Sly Fox" as Simon Able. During the past two years, Gibbons has played featured roles in "Revenger's Tragedy" at Strawdog, "A Christmas Carol" at the Avenue Theatre, and various productions at Pegasus, Gillson Park, Theater on the Lake and the University of Chicago.

Gibbons' daughter, Megan Gibbons, plays Thomas More's devoted daughter, Lady Margaret More. Megan is a senior at Regina Dominican High School in Wilmette.

Jackie Shadinger of Arlington Heights portrays More's wife, Lady Alice More. Shadinger has an extensive list of theatre credits. She is the Artistic Director of Chuckles Children's Theatre and a professional voice-over actor.

Two cast members live in Zion: Tom McElroy appears as King Henry the Eighth and Tom Colvin as William Roper. More's high-principled, young son-in-law.

Three cast members are from Waukegan: Gary Saxvik plays Signor Chapuys, the Spanish Ambassador. Saxvik teaches English at Libertyville High School. Matthew Wilson, a junior at Waukegan High School, plays Chapuys' Attendant. Rob Hadding plays the role of the weak-minded Master Richard Rich, who rises to prominence at the expense of others.

Also featured in the cast are Thom Parker of Villa Park as the Duke of Norfolk, More's friend and Michael Veglia of Northbrook as Thomas Cranmer, Archbishop of Canterbury.

Longhorn Steak House, the steak house of the '90s

There is a new, fresh look at the Longhorn Steak House in McHenry. Overlooking lovely Lily Lake, customers are treated to the almost retreat like atmosphere.

"It is just like being on vacation" a patron explained. With the new entryway and bright walls, a whole new look is developing for the Steak House.

"A steak house should not be the gloomy place of old" owner Paul Glasior insists. And so, Chef Ron and Paul have reinvented the steak house. While still serving excellent cuisine, the restaurant has an airy, roomy feel, unlike the darkened, shadowy ambience that represents steak houses in the past.

While the atmosphere has changed, the excellent food has not. This Gold Plate Award winning restaurant still offers their famous BBQ ribs; their hearty-portioned prime rib dinner; and their 22 ounce, center-cut prime butt steak for two.

Seafood lovers don't despair. The Longhorn Steak House is not just another beef place. A fish fry of fresh lake perch is featured every Friday night. And that's not all. Fresh fish offerings of swordfish, grouper, yellow-fin tuna, and Norwegian salmon are also available.

As the Longhorn is the Steakhouse of the '90s, their new banquet facility, The Lakemoor, is the banquet facility of the '90s. This premier facility will seat parties from 100 to 850.

"We will be bringing Country Club dining and personal service to all of our banquets and parties," said Glasior. "We will provide valet parking and grounds for outdoor functions."

The grand opening of The Lakemoor will be April 1, but reservations can be made through 1997. And, any booking with them now will be eligible for a wide variety of grand opening discounts and upgrades. The Lakemoor is located on Route 120, 1 1/2 miles west of Route 12.

For reservations or more information for both the restaurant or the banquet facilities call (815) 385-9869. As you relax in the lounge of the Longhorn Friday and Saturday evenings enjoy all the old tunes from the '30s through present time played in our lounge by Dave.

The Longhorn Steak House is located on Route 120 in McHenry, just 2 1/2 miles west of Route 12. The Longhorn is open seven days a week. Lunch is served Monday through Friday from 11:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. Dinner is served Monday through Saturday from 5:00 p.m. until 10:00 p.m.

Hospice director works to ease pain, grief

Carole Blazek

SPENCER SCHEIN

Staff Reporter

Carole Blazek of Barrington has spent many hours over the years working at a local bereavement organization which attempts to assist families through the trying time of the death of a family member or friend.

The Hospice of Northeastern Illinois, Inc. has served a five county area for the past nine years, and just raised a record amount at its annual membership and fund-raiser drive held in November. A total of $55,000 was donated to the group, headquartered in Barrington, compared to $26,000 raised in '92.

Blazek attributes the increase to an larger patron base, which grew from 6,000 to more than 10,000 individuals, made up from family and friends of persons who the hospice has helped and people who attend hospice special events.

About 360 patrons actually made donations from all over the 88 communities they provide care for in Lake, McHenry, Kane, Cook and DuPage counties.

The hospice takes care of persons who have been diagnosed with a terminal illness. "Our thrust is to see if we can make the patient as comfortable as possible," Blazek said, working with the individual and their family and friends, "(so) they can die in peace at home and not be alone.

"It's palliative care, not curative care," said Blazek. The Hospice Foundation director since last March.

Some of the patients are cared for in their own homes, but only if they have someone to care for them. Otherwise, they can be cared for at any of the 14 nursing homes or six hospitals the hospice is affiliated with.

The group has grown from a group of 20 volunteers in 1984 to a staff of 70 nurses, doctors, bereavement counselors and priests, and 200 volunteers.

"It's a team effort," she said. See HOSPICE page B28

It's a family affair at medical center

PAT WEISS

Correspondent

If "All in the Family" had not already been used, it would make a wonderful title for the Dacanay story.

Dr. Romeo Dacanay has been in practice in the Wauconda Medical Arts Building for over 25 years. His wife, Dr. Teresita Dacanay, who began the practice with him, is presently a staff physician at the veteran's hospital in North Chicago.

Both doctors graduated from the University of Santo Tomas in the Philippines and did their post graduate work in Milwaukee, Wis., where they met. Keeping the family tradition going, their first nurse was a sister, Dorothy Viola.

Dr. Romeo Dacanay, in 1988, in what could be taken as an omen of things to come, expanded his practice to include bariatrics, the branch of medicine that deals with the care of people who are overweight and the treatment of obesity. Which leads us to the rest of the family circle and their interests...daughters Leslie Dacanay Ferrigan, physical therapist, and Sharlene Dacanay Mecchi, nutritionist.

Both girls' youthful appearances belie their years of education and expertise. At first glance one almost expects Leslie to break into a Carmel High School cheer or Sharlene to start her homework (both ladies are Carmel High grads and living proof that fitness works).

Leslie received her B.A. degree in physical therapy at the University of Illinois in Chicago and is certified by ACE (American Council on Exercise). Sharlene earned her B.A. degree in food and nutrition from the University of Illinois in Urbana and is also certified by ACE.

Leslie, a vivacious bundle of energy, and Sharlene, a little more reserved and business-oriented, are a marvelous combination and balance for each other...they had a dream.

A year ago Leslie was a physical therapist at Lake Forest Hospital and Sharlene was in the middle of her residency at Rush/St. Luke's Hospital working on her masters. Influenced somewhat by their father's new field of health and diet, and sensing a need in the Wauconda area for fitness, the two sisters conceived the idea of combining the family talents and contributing at the same time.

First step...a place to practice, and since Dad owned the Wauconda Medical Arts Building, an addition seemed the logical move. End result: The Wauconda Wellness Center, featuring Leslie, physical therapist; Sharlene, nutritionist; bariatric help from Dad; and even occasional medical consultation from Mom.

The center offers physical therapy and rehabilitation (pre- and post-operative, aerobic and arthritis), and bariatric and nutrition programs (rapid weight loss, PSMF [Protein Sparing Modified Fast]), reduced balance calorie programs, diabetic diets, low fat/low cholesterol diets and low sodium diets.

Personalization is important to the fitness-dedicated "sister act." They tailor each program to fit the individual. Leslie spends a minimum of 30 minutes with each patient. She believes strongly in hands-on therapy. Sharlene counsels each person with a great deal of individual attention. "It takes time but it's worth it," she confides.

On the day we visited the sun-filled multi-purpose room that doubles as a work out gym and classroom, diet program enthusiasts Marilyn Maddock and Dee Keller were whizzing along on the exercise bike and treadmill, extolling the virtues of their class and their leaders. The 10-week program includes low impact aerobics, diet, exercise and lectures. "We love it," Maddock exclaimed. "It's been wonderful. I feel great!" Keller beamed.

When asked why they chose their particular fields, Leslie and Sharlene had different answers. Newly married Leslie (a September bride to her groom, David), replied, "I hurt my shoulder cheerleading in high school while doing a back handspring. Years later I finally had to have surgery and therapy. I was already in pre-med and the thought of helping people with therapy really appealed to me." And with her upbeat smile and healing hands, she is doing just that.

Sharlene responded with a little smile, "I had a weight problem growing up (hard to imagine when you observe her svelte figure) and I decided what better way to learn about the problem than by really studying it." And what better person to have counseling you than one who has been there? She has also become adept at balancing nutrition classes with baby tending. Fifteen-month-old Ryan has a special nook in Mom's office.

With this exceptionally qualified staff, Wauconda has no excuse not to be "the fittest of the fit" and it's "all in the family." In fact the only non-Dacanay person we could find on the premises was receptionist Bernice Valentine from Antioch, but Leslie insisted she was pseudo-adopted sister. It's definitely "A Family Affair."

'Kids Helping Kids' aids Children's Memorial

The time is fast approaching when hundreds of tennis players, age 8 to 18, will take to the courts for "Tennithon VIII." The Chicagoland Indoor Tennis Association (CITA) sponsors this event which will be held at 11 area indoor tennis clubs on Friday, Feb. 25 and Saturday, Feb. 26 (Mid-Town Tennis Club will hold their Tennithon on Friday, Feb. 19). The money raised during the tennis marathon goes to the Chicagoland Children's Miracle Network Telethon, which raises funds for The Children's Memorial Medical Center in Chicago.

"Kids Serving Kids" is the theme of this athletic endeavor, which will feature 500 junior tennis players. Pledges are made for each hour of play. Participants will be eligible for different levels of prizes based on the amount of money they raise, including a FuncoLand Video game, Nike athletic shoes, a Wilson Pro Staff Classic Racquet and more. The top prize will be round-trip transportation for two to any of the 48 continental United States, excluding Alaska and Hawaii, courtesy of American Airlines, the official airline of "Tennithon VIII."

The participating "Tennithon VIII" clubs are: Mid-Town Tennis Club in Chicago, College Park Athletic Club in Bannockburn, Edens Tennis Club in Skokie, Hinsdale Racquet Club in Hinsdale, Libertyville Tennis Club in Libertyville, River Trails Tennis Center in Arlington Heights, Wheaton Sport Center in Wheaton, Woodfield Racquet Club in Schaumburg and Northbrook Racquet Club, North Shore Racquet Club and Glenbrook Racquet Club in Northbrook.

Joining CITA as sponsors of "Tennithon VIII" are: American Airlines, FuncoLand, Nike and Wilson. The proceeds from "Tennithon VIII" that go to the Chicagoland Children's Miracle Network Telethon will benefit patient care programs and research at Children's Memorial. This year's telethon can be seen June 4 and 5 on WLS-TV, Channel 7.

For more information about "Tennithon VIII," a local tennis club or the CITA at (312)337-0145.

Fuel for an active lifestyle

Will a potato a day keep the doctor away? It can't hurt. A person needs six servings of carbohydrate foods a day for a healthy diet. A well-balanced diet, including carbohydrates, iron and calcium, will provide the energy needed to maintain an active lifestyle. The American Heart Association of Metropolitan Chicago recommends these fundamental nutrients for any person on-the-go.

Carbohydrates: Energy for Working Muscles

Carbohydrates are the body's preferred source of energy for working muscles. The human body stores very little carbohydrates. Therefore, a high carbohydrate, low fat diet is essential for replenishment. Foods high in carbohydrates include fruits and fruit juices, breads, cereals, rice, pasta and whole grains. It is very important to eat at least six servings of carbohydrate, rich foods per day.

When thinking about snacks, choose high carbohydrate foods. A few healthy snacks are: fresh fruit; bagel with jelly; breadsticks; pretzels or a snack bag of dry breakfast cereal with raisins. These foods replace high fat snacks such as potato chips, snack chips and candy bars. By selecting foods high in carbohydrates, you will meet the dietary guidelines established by the American Heart Association, less than 30 percent of your daily calorie intake should come from fat.

Iron and Calcium: Key Minerals for a Healthy Future

Females are particularly susceptible to poor iron consumption. Therefore, it is essential for women to incorporate iron-rich foods, such as meat, into their diets. Iron-rich meat include lean beef, pork, chicken, turkey and fish. The iron from foods of animal origin are more readily absorbed by the body than iron found in vegetables, fruits and grains.

However, non-animal sources of iron can contribute significantly to the diet's iron content, especially when eaten in combination with an animal iron source or a vitamin C food. Vitamin C enhances the availability of iron. Foods high in vitamin C are orange juice, green peppers, tomatoes, potatoes and broccoli.

Non animal iron sources include: dried apricots; dates and raisins; baked beans, kidney beans and green beans; spinach, and "enriched" or "fortified" pastas, cereals and breads.

Like iron, calcium is another very important, yet easy to neglect, mineral. Low calcium consumption can lead to stress fractures and osteoporosis later in life. Therefore, AHA-MC recommends at least two servings of low-fat dairy products everyday. These include low-fat or nonfat fruit yogurt, one percent or skim milk, low-fat or part-skim milk cheeses, ice milk and low-fat cottage cheese.

Incorporating good nutrition practices into a daily routine will help keep a pace with any busy lifestyle. The refreshing lowfat recipe below from the American Heart Association Lowfat, Low-Cholesterol Cookbook is packed with good nutrition. The AHA-MC recommends eating a diet high in complex carbohydrates and an abundance of iron and calcium-rich foods to meet nutrition needs.

The American Heart Association of Metropolitan Chicago is the largest voluntary health organization in the Chicago area dedicated to the reduction of disability and death from cardiovascular diseases and stroke, which annually kill close to one million people. Funds raised by AHA-MC support research, education and community programs in Cook, DuPage and Lake Counties. For more information, call the DuPage County office at 312/346-4675.

Hospice

The patients are never charged, and the money raised helps cover the costs not paid for by Medicare, Medicaid or private insurance, Blazek said.

Once they have passed on, the hospice provides counseling for their family and friends for up to one year.

She started as a volunteer in 1985 and signed on with the foundation two years ago before being named the director.

"I believe in the concept and I think it's a wonderful program," she said.

She said it provides a great service for those who experience deaths of close relatives or friends, something she experienced 25 years ago when her brother, Bradley, age 26, died.

With her three children, Christine, 26, David, 23, and Jennifer, 22, grown and moved on, Blazek has resided in Barrington for the past 10 years with her husband, Rich.

Other than working at the hospice, she has played competitive paddle tennis on a North Shore team for the past 15 years and also plays on a tennis team.

Staff Psychologist

This presentation will review how we presently define ADHD, how to properly assess for this disorder, and the impact of ADHD on the individual and his or her family. We will discuss the causes of ADHD and discuss treatment—including those forms of treatment which have been popularized but never proven empirically to be effective. Special emphasis will be given to medication management, parent and teacher approaches. There will also be a discussion of Attention Deficit Disorder without Hyperactivity (ADD).

Dr. Bolnick is a staff psychologist with Saint Therese Medical Center and is in private practice in Libertyville.

Victory Health Services meets needs of Lake County residents

Lake County's population has been increasing dramatically every year. Drive west on Grand Ave., Washington St. or Belvidere Rd. even a short distance and you can see the many new housing developments under construction.

With this increase in population, the staff of Victory Health Services (parent corporation of Victory Memorial Hospital) identified a growing need for health-care services throughout the north Lake County area. As a result, in June 1993, the Victory Medical Building opened at Walden Square, 100 N. Atkinson Rd., Grayslake.

The Victory Medical Building provides office space for independent primary care physicians. It also makes many diagnostic and medical testing services convenient to residents of west Lake County. Such services include: Medical laboratory services, mammography screenings, pre-surgical testing and education, general X-rays, electrocardiograms (EKG's), holter monitoring and ultrasounds. Residents of eastern Lake County have convenient access to these same services at Victory Memorial Hospital, Waukegan.

In addition to the Victory Medical Building, there are nine other locations (including Victory Memorial Hospital) which provide Victory services in north Lake County. These include the Victory Outpatient Chemical Dependency Programs at 2031 E. Grand Ave., Lindenhurst, which also opened in 1993. The staff provides individual counseling, group therapy, intervention and education services for chemically dependent individuals, their families and the community at this west Lake County location.

The Victory Adult Day Center (located in the Lake County Family YMCA), 2000 Western Ave., Waukegan, offers structured activities and medical monitoring designed to maintain, restore and rehabilitate older adults and patients with physical limitations. It also provides unique programs, like a stroke/exercise program in conjunction with the YMCA, and a personal bath program for individuals who cannot safely bathe independently at home.

Victory Health Care Services has offices located at 99 E. Greenwood, Waukegan. However, the many nurses, medical social workers, therapists, nurses aides, and homemakers who staff the program provide care to individuals in their homes throughout Lake County.

The Victory Professional Building, 2031 E. Grand Ave., Lindenhurst, provides office space for independent primary care physicians. For information on any of the services offered at Victory's 10 locations throughout north Lake County, call the Community Relations Dept. at 360-4246.

Parents learn to:

- Identify basic guidelines to follow when parenting teenagers
- Handle conflict with teens in a cooperative, business-like manner
- Help your teenager become more self-assured, self-directed and responsible.

IT'S THE TALK OF THE TOWN

What you think

A compilation of THOUGHTS ABOUT SNOW REMOVAL
WEATHER.

Good work

I would like to applaud the men in Fox Lake that work for the public works and road crew. The people in Fox Lake should realize how spoiled they are and know that the crew is doing the best they can with the resources available.

You should be so lucky

I want to thank the Fox Lake road crews for keeping the streets so clean. The rest of Grant Township should be so lucky.

Happy driver

A big thanks to the Antioch public works department. Every morning when I get up to go to work after it snows, my streets are clear and I have easy traveling.

Take a lesson

We really admire the snow removal system in Mundelein. Other towns could take a lesson from you. Keep up the good work. We know you work hard.

Rough roads

Someone should fix the pot-holes on Juneway Terrace in Round Lake Beach. I noticed the mayor's road is not full of pot-holes.

Plow not write

No one should have to thank anyone for Jim S. in Lake Villa. He is a blankety-blank. He has no money to pay overtime to plow roads, but he has the money to send out newsletters.

Many dark hours

In your paper, it said the power was out for some hours. I want to tell you that the lights were out from 8:30 p.m. Thursday until 1:30 Saturday. It was 29 hours. That is too long.

Wants a response

I read in your paper that Judy Martini said she would not put up any signs unless the other candidates did. I never heard any response from the other candidates.

Noisey plan

I can't believe the Round Lake Park Board would approve the expansion of the airport. The area is growing rapidly and there are many complaints already about the noise from the gun club. Imagine the noise from a larger airport. Not to mention more added congestion.

Good roads

This is in response to the person complaining about the snow plowing in Fox Lake. I drive from Fox Lake to Vernon Hills everyday and no where were the road conditions as good or even close to ours. I say hats off to our road commission.

Enjoyed the production

Thank you State Bank of Antioch. That name will still be a favorite of ours. Thank you for giving us "Kiss Me Kate." Everything was just tremendous.

Political commentary

Your paper has made too much out of the fact that Diana O'Kelly received the Libertyville Township Republican endorsement over Collin McRae. Diana O'Kelly, herself, admits to being funded by the Village of Mettawa who are angry at Collin's vote against Mettawa. She also benefits by developments and has a brand new house. She has no political experience. The Township of Libertyville includes only a small area of the county board district of McRae's and they also endorsed Carol Calabrese, the tree hugger.

Too much paper

I am very dissatisfied with the Round Lake News. I have been taking the paper for years and do not appreciate the large amount of paper. Also the print is too small. I would appreciate it if you could make the print larger and use less paper. I am a senior citizen.

Get out and shovel

I just want to respond to the allegation that the Fox Lake street department did not plow properly. All I want to say is that you are nuts! The street department plows so much better than any other street department. They cannot shovel off the sidewalks of every business. Do you think, maybe, you can get off your own butt and say thanks when they drive by plowing the roads. Go out and do it yourself. Come on.

Still plowing

Here we go again about our good friend Semmerling. I see he is crying again for more money to do what he has already received money for, like plowing our streets. However, I still don't like the taxpayers equipment plowing private driveways. I know some of that work is authorized, but some of it isn't. Now that I think about it, he should plow everyone's driveway. If the trustees give him any more money, then they should all be thrown out of office.

Anti-cable

Mad at firing

Three cheers

Three cheers to Jim Perault of Round Lake High School for his response about the athletic director. Now, maybe people will stop complaining without knowing the facts first. To Rambler, welcome to mud-duck land. I am on Channel 21 and glad to hear from you.

Won't change her mind

No, I would not change my mind about Month of the Morons, because, quite frankly, it does not come down to who will win in a court of law. It has nothing to do with it. It is attitude. We are going to strip all minorities, religions, and ethnic groups of their specialness by saying that it is discrimination to do something that focuses on one group of people. We need to have that happen or else we will wind up all walking around like zombies. We need to have different people in the world.

Unpublic service

I live in Fox Lake and I work late at night. My wife has cancer and three children in school. Last week in the snowstorms we called the school to find out if they were going to be open. There was no answer. We called another number and my daughter was told in eight words that she would have to call the school or listen to the radio. He could have used one word, yes or no. It is not a real big deal but we don't have a radio. I am just a poor guy. Public service ought to be what it says, public service.

Lunch date

I just want to say that Elvis is really alive. He stopped by my house and we had lunch together. Really.

Current affairs

I would like to answer the individual who said "Lipservice, my butt." He went on to say that Lipservice is for people who have no life and call in to talk to a recording. Well, welcome to the club since it was obvious that he has read the articles and he took the time to call and express an opinion. Frankly, I would rather read Lipservice and find out what is on the minds of my fellow citizens because my life does not revolve around the question of how many affairs the president has. It also does not revolve around Tonya Harding and Nancy Kerrigan, whether Michael Jordan will play baseball, and any of the other issues that seem to make national news. Local politicians make policy and platforms based on the opinions of their constituents. Without Lipservice and Letters to the Editor, they would not have platforms to win your vote. Odds are, the opinions we express through Lipservice are the issues politicians will address. I don't always agree with what people say hear, nor the means in which they do it, but I do believe people have the right to express themselves.

Easy job

Anyone interested in the easiest job in Lake County? Sign up and be an undercover policeman for Round Lake Park. I watched the guy last week work a six-hour shift. He spent one of those hours in a local restaurant, and the other five in the old Round Lake Village Hall. What kind of undercover work is this?

Love notes

Number 12, I miss what we used to have. I will never forget what we shared, the good and the bad. Thank you for that. Too much has changed. Keep the key chain, you did not get the meaning behind it when I gave it to you anyway. It does not mean anything to me anymore. I will always be so much in love with you. Thank you for that. Please don't forget what we had. I love you.

Thanks for nothing

I think it is BS for the Village of Fox Lake to jump the prices of the vehicle stickers from $10 to $25. Where is the money going? What's next, $55? Thanks a lot Fox Lake, thanks for nothing.

A section for each

I would like to congratulate Lakeland Newspapers for the good job they have done re-doing their paper. My wife and I can now each take a section of the paper and read it. I really like Lipservice too. It is a chance to blow off steam.

A terrible mistake

How could they remove the coffee counter from the Woolworth's store? It was the most charming, old fashioned, down-home, small-town thing in Fox Lake. What a terrible mistake.

Frozen kitty

Mr. Dog Man. That dog had a guardian angel on its shoulder, you. I do not have words enough to tell you how wonderful you are. I live in Round Lake Heights, and on a sub-zero morning, my husband left to go to work. He came right back in. He had found an exposed calico cat. Its head stuck between the fence and a sampling. It was frozen solid. We will never forget this heartbreaking tragedy. This cat should have never been outside. We commend you Mr. Dog Man. You are a hero.

Grinnell supporter

I am calling to say that I think your paper is prejudiced and I am going to cancel my subscription. Every time I call with something positive about Clint Grinnell, you don't print it. But you print all kinds of nonsense about Eddy Sindles.

His opinion

I read with interest Mr. Schroeder's column about Mr. Sindles. I find it interesting that only three months ago, Mr. Schroeder also wrote a column saying that Sindles had no chance in the election. Now, it seems his comments are more pro-Sindles. This goes hand-in-hand with the fact that Lipservice only prints things against Grinnell. I think that you should either come out and say you are leaning towards Sindles or try to remain as neutral as you have been in the past.

Police visits

This is to the Rock Church people. If the people of Round Lake are twisted, why is it that the police are always over at your house? See LIPSERVICE page B31

IT'S THE TALK OF THE TOWN

GET IT OFF YOUR CHEST (708) 223-8073

Lakeland Newspapers

She is absolutely sure

I work for a veterinarian and in the past week we have seen two dogs with hip problems so bad they cannot sit without pain. They will need surgery for any chance of a normal life. Guess where these pups came from? You got it, our local pet store. The dogs who produce pet store puppies are mill dogs. If people would stop buying pet store puppies, the mills would stop producing them. So, don't tell me about absolutes. I see the results of pet store puppies, and it is absolutely disgusting.

Radio talk

My handle is the Bouncer on the CB. This is to Rambler. There is nothing wrong with Radio Pirate or Sniper. It is just that some people do not like them because they sound great and they know the truth about CB. Good luck.

Calling us lazy

This is reader that wants hockey information. I thought it was up to the newspaper to go out and get the information readers want and print it. Not just sit there and wait for the information to be handed to you.

Editorial note: Dear reader, I think the characterization of us sitting on our behinds waiting for information to be handed to us is unfair. We have had the scores for iceless hockey in the newspaper since the season began. Scores can be found in the Antioch News Reporter, the Lake Villa Record and the Lindenhurst News where most of the teams are located.

Grayslake not Round Lake

Couple weeks ago I called and complained about a head coach being the athletic director. It was erroneously printed as Round Lake. Instead, I meant the Grayslake High School.

Already paid

I move to Round Lake Heights 50 years ago. I paid for my waterlines and connection fees. I can't understand the board of Round Lake Heights that would expect us, as senior citizens, to pay again for the sake of development. Development at any price? Is that what you think.

Late dates

Nice paper, Lakeland News. Why don't you quit worrying about Lipservice and get your dates right. Two articles had events for Feb. 10 when the paper comes out Feb. 11. Why even print it? Get some articles that are important. The Special Ed meeting and the Gang Presentation were held on Feb. 10. How is the public supposed to attend if you print them a day later. Give me a break. This is a joke newspaper.

Editorial note: Dear reader, while you are correct that the subscribers do not get their paper in the mail until Feb. 11, those that purchase the paper at a newsstand can pick them up on Feb. 10.

No more gun laws

In response to the law makers who claim we need more gun laws, which we don't. If you did your job we wouldn't need more gun laws. It seems the judiciary can't decide between themselves. The Supreme Court believes that criminals should be mollycoddled. I am tired of you blaming me for a problem that is not mine. I wish you would just do your job. You end up being cowards, blaming us for your inadequacy.

Need these things

As whites, we already have these services of the government. Black people are a minority and that is why they have the right to have their own colleges and everything. If we treated them with the same respect and they got the same opportunities that we have already, they wouldn't need these things. I think people who are racist are just afraid and don't know any better.

Loan nightmare

Lipservice, I love that music. I am calling about the loan officer who was going to write the pamphlet. I think it is a good idea. We had problems with our mortgage company and at closing, our mortgage was sold to another company who has been a pain ever since. Also, they sold our name to every home remodeler and insurance salesman on the planet.

Lots going on

I am a mother of teenagers. I would like the teenagers of Round Lake to know there are a lot of fun things they can do instead of complaining they are bored. At the Lakes Region Bible Church they had a lock in and a pizza party. They do lots of fun things like scavenger hunts, trips to the mall, and other great things. If you are interested in finding out more call 546-5231.

Sound information

Yo, yo, yo, I have some news about myself. I am one of Bad Boy's cousins. I am going to be 6,000 watts out on Channel 21.

Tithing supporter

If all churches taught their people to tithe, you wouldn't need any bingo, Las Vegas Nights, or even spaghetti dinners. We should not be gambling and serving booze on church property.

Is he a hero?

I would like to find out if Ken Domanchuk, running for board member in Antioch, is the same one who pulled all those kids out of that bus when there was that accident four or five years ago.

Fantasy island

I am calling about the gang problem in Round Lake. I read in your article that Officer Smith said that we do not have a significant gang problem in Round Lake. That we do not have any hard-core gang bangers. What, is he living on a island? Is it a fantasy land? The mayors of these villages better get off their $$$s.

No wheelchairs

Why doesn't the Village of Fox Lake have any wheelchairs? I just went shopping and can't believe that there is not a single store that has wheelchairs available for their customers. Also, the people in Fox Lake and Round Lake are rude. The people in McHenry are really nice.

Mark the mobilers

Maybe snowmobilers would not destroy wildlife, trespass, and rob banks if they could be individually identified. Make the ID numbers as big as the brand names on the sides of their sleds. Force them all to be registered. Then, I'll bet you would see a reduction in the annual snowmobile mayhem.

Send more

A great big thank you for the complimentary papers at Warren High School. However, there is a concern that soon the superintendent will start his tactics accusing and drilling that staff as to the identity of the call in. Also, we are concerned he will stop the newspaper. Please, do not let this happen. Thursday is the highlight of the week. By the way, we could use more papers. They go like hot cakes. I live in Wadsworth.

There ought to be a law

Here we go again. Dig deeper. Guess what. No, no, no. When are the teachers and school district going to give up? I do not want to see another referendum for the next five years. There ought to be a law that there can't be.

Anchor Bank launches community service

RHONDA VINZANT
Editor in Chief

Billing itself as a community bank here to serve the entire community from small to big business, to the average homeowners, Anchor Bank in Grayslake will open its doors to the community, Feb. 26, with a grand opening celebration.

"Our employees are unique," said John Wolf, president of the bank. "The employees who work here are in tune with the customers. They care about the customer and look out for their best interest. That is a principle you can't teach."

Anchor Bank broke ground at the corner of Rte. 45 and Washington in July of 1991 and operated out of a trailer until the building was opened in November of last year.

Anchor Bank is a full-service commercial bank offering a variety of services such as interest-bearing checking accounts, free checking for seniors and students, business and small business accounts which include options for a fixed monthly service fee.

"We feel that we offer unique services here that you can only find in a community bank," said Wolf. "We want to give customers services here without having to contact a main office. Most of our customers are our friends. When you come in, you know the people you are going to be dealing with."

Wolf says even the design of the building is such to accommodate the customer. It is bright, airy and fully handicapped-accessible including a handicapped accessible teller window and safe deposit boxes.

In keeping with the spirit of a community bank, all deposits of the bank are kept locally.

The bank's lending area is a five mile radius.

"We are here to be a part of the community and to help the community," Wolf said.

The bank has 11 employees, all Lake County residents. Wolf has been a resident of the county for the past 17 years. Wolf is also active in the community as a member of the Rotary and Lions Clubs. Other employees participate in Exchange Club and other civic organizations.

Natives of the Chicagoland area pride themselves on being a hardy breed, able to withstand whatever Ol' Man Winter can dish out. After a few rather mild seasons, however, these intrepid folks are stampeding to area travel agents to escape this year's barrage of blustery weather.

"It started Jan. 3 and hasn't let up," said Patty Barth of the Travel Station in Mundelein. "We've been here quite a few nights till 10 o'clock. People want to go any place warm."

Barth, who opened the business on Lake Street four years ago with Sue Garza, said the bookings are about double what they were a year ago. "We're having trouble getting through to the tour operators. Everybody's overloaded. Sometimes we're on hold for an hour."

Jim Warnken, president of North Star Travel in Lindenhurst, said he is having "the best January since we opened nine years ago."

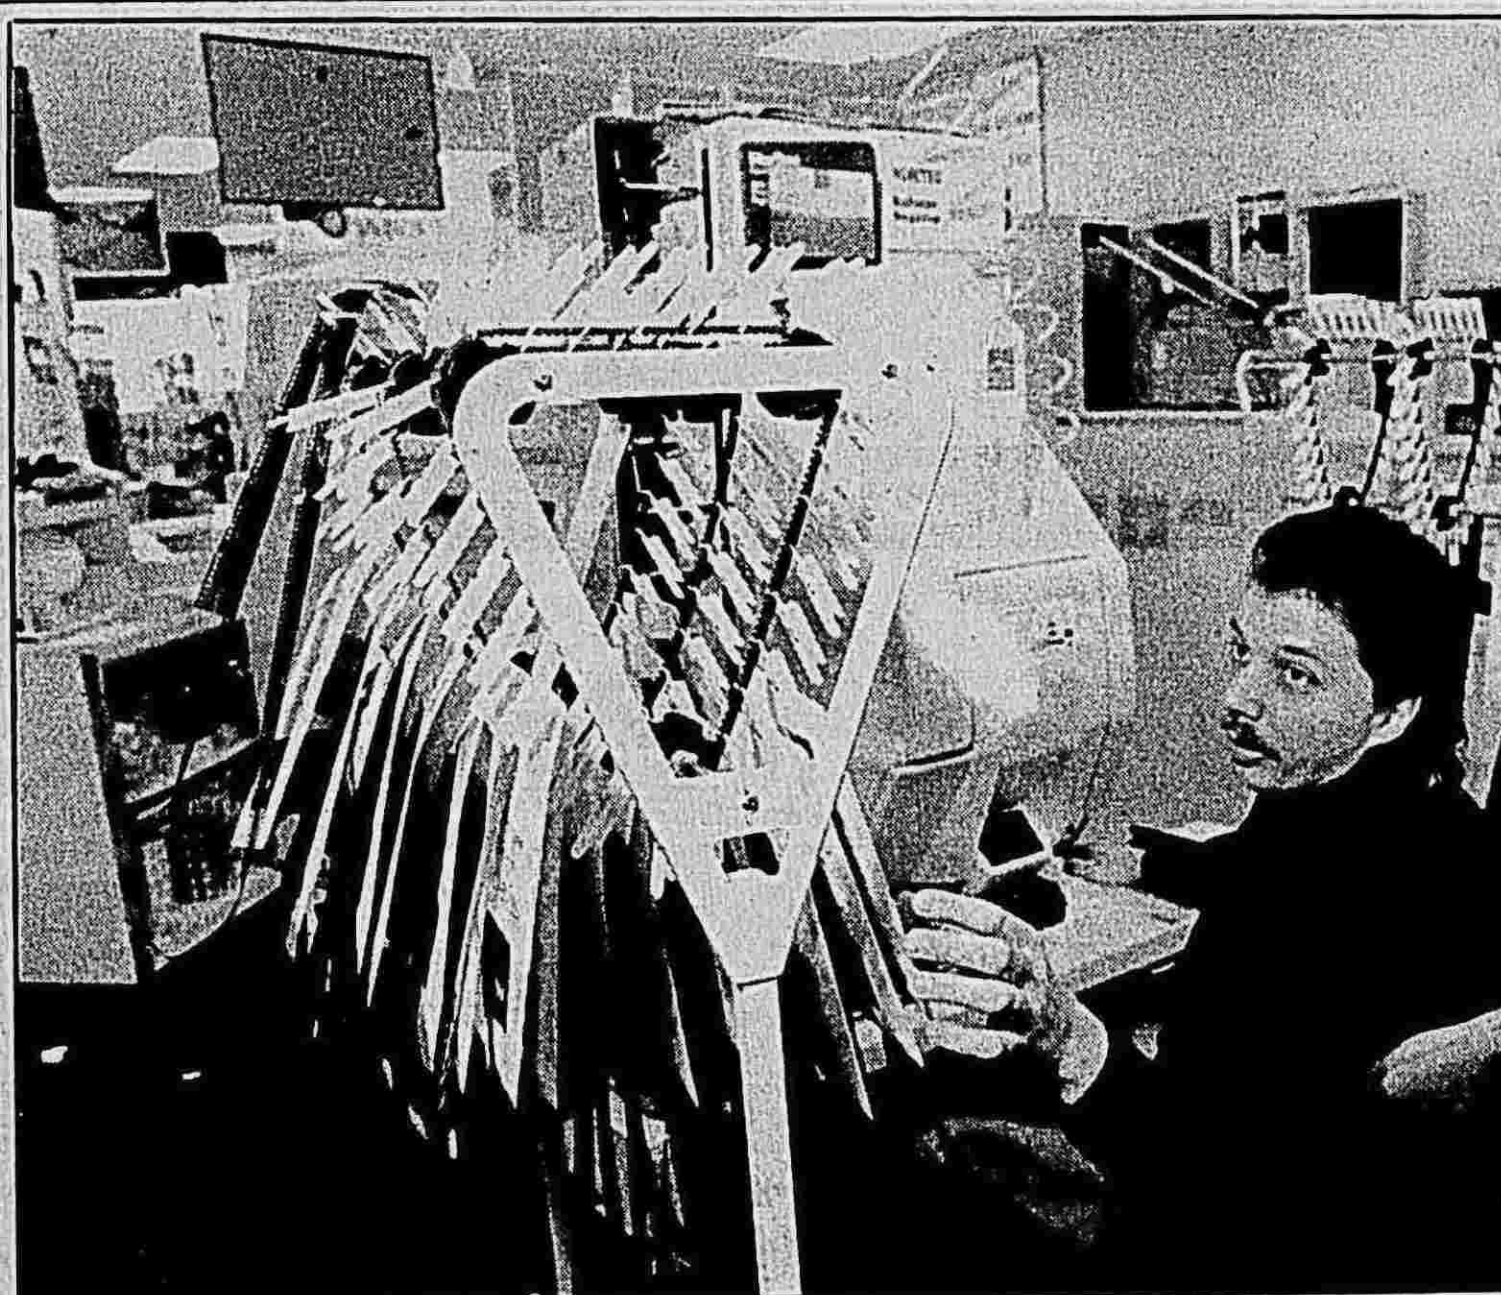

The trend seems to be cruising, he noted, and the Caribbean seems to be the real hot spot.

"The other trend is that a lot of people want to go 'next week.' But that's not a problem," he said. "What is a problem is trying to get through to the tour operators and cruise lines."

"I'd like to get away myself," he sighed, "but I can't go anywhere."

Best Travel, located in Hawthorn Center, is swamped not only because of the weather, but because the area itself is growing so quickly.

"Everyone's flying the coop. Florida is going to fall into the ocean," said manager Jan Carroll, noting the favorite destination for spring break, "but cruises are big too. Even Arizona is good, and some people are even going to California."

Important changes for real estate investors

Seidler

Every new tax law creates winners and losers. If you are a real estate professional who also owns rental property, you should be feeling good about the latest round of tax legislation.

Under prior law, losses from rental real estate were treated as "passive." Passive losses were deductible only to the extent of your passive income. An exception was made if you materially participated in the rental activity. Meeting the material participation rules allowed you to deduct up to $25,000 of rental real estate losses against non-passive income, but this exception began to phase out once your adjusted gross income exceeded $100,000.

Beginning January 1, 1994, certain "real estate professionals" may deduct rental real estate losses in full. You qualify as a "real estate professional" if more than 50% of the personal services that you perform during the year are for "real property trades or businesses" in which you materially participate. In addition, you must perform more than 750 hours of service per year in these real estate activities.

As you can probably tell, this rule is a complex one. It also raises many questions. For example, what qualifies as a real estate trade or business? What if your spouse meets the qualification rules, but you don't? How do you treat passive losses that were suspended under the prior tax law?

Real property trades or businesses are defined as any real property development, redevelopment, construction, reconstruction, acquisition, conversion, rental, operation, management, leasing, or brokerage trade or business.

The material participation of a spouse cannot be combined with the other spouse. One spouse must separately satisfy the requirements mentioned previously to qualify as a real estate professional.

Suspended losses from the activity that are carried to 1994 will be treated as a loss from a former passive activity. The deduction for the loss will be limited to income from that activity. Any remaining suspended losses are deductible when the taxpayer disposes the entire interest in a fully taxable transaction with an unrelated party.

The new law contains two other important real estate provisions. If you are released from mortgage debt on real property that's used in a trade or business, you may be able to treat such debt forgiveness as an adjustment to basis, rather than as taxable income. Also the depreciation period for nonresidential real estate has been increased from 31.5 to 39 years.

If any of these provisions apply to your situation, we suggest that you contact your financial consultant as soon as possible. Implementing the right tax strategy now could save hundreds, or even thousands, of dollars.

Hold on to Quaker Oat and Sara Lee

This week our two local stocks are both recommended as hold's by Wall Street analysts. Quaker Oats, the food and beverage giant, as well as Sara Lee, a well diversified, multinational company, best known for desserts will be looked at.

Seldenberg

Quaker Oats (OAT-NYSE)

The company that brings you household names like Cap N' Crunch, Life, Quaker Oatmeal, Gatorade, Rice-A-Roni and Aunt Jemima, as well as Gaines, Ken-L Ration and Puss'n Boots pet foods, is as diversified across the world as it is with its products.

Presently, only 65 percent of Quaker's sales are coming from the U.S., while 23 percent are in Europe, eight percent Latin America and the Pacific, and four percent in Canada. Although this gives them a nice international exposure, the economic woes in some of these parts of the world have caused a sharp drop of 18 percent in Quaker's second quarter of fiscal 1994.

Earnings have been increasing steadily since 1990 from $2.15 to a projected $5 in fiscal 1995. This fact, combined with the expected ten percent growth rate for the next five years would give enough reason to hold the stock, but the problems in Europe and the currency fluctuation are reasons for investors to keep a close eye on this.

With a "full valuation" of Quaker Oats in the low $70 a share range based on cash flow analysis, present earnings, and growth rate, OAT is recommended as a hold for investors seeking growth and income.

Sara Lee (SLE-NYSE)

You might think of Sara Lee as the company that brings you some memorable desserts, but they are much more than that. Some other brand names falling under Sara Lee's control are Hanes, L'eggs, Playtex, Hillshire Farm, Ball Park and Jimmy Dean. SLE is now so diversified, 57 percent of its profits come from personal products.

Sara Lee is under some earnings pressure because of poor European markets, and a general weakness in the U.S. and U.K. hosiery market. Earnings are still expected to grow at 12 percent a year over the next five years.

The fact that SLE is such a strong, quality company certainly, is in its favor, that along with a stable three percent dividend makes SLE a company which is favored by some analysts, but the majority are still recommending a hold until the situation in Europe gets better.

Six years ago, after getting a small but encouraging start at neighborhood fairs, Dave Milazzo decided to try to turn his Champ! Fudge'n Nut Premium Ice Cream Bar into a contender in the fiercely competitive frozen novelty market.

Lacking the budget of a DoveBar or a Haagen Dazs, he adopted a scrappy, street fighting approach to placing his product, chiefly by using distribution at major league ballparks as a wedge to getting retail shelf space. And slowly, like an athlete coming up through the ranks, the Champ! Fudge'n Nut Premium Ice Cream Bar has advanced toward the big time.

Today, Champ! is the official ice cream of the Chicago Cubs. It's a heavy hitter at the Minneapolis MetroDome and the Mile High Stadium in Denver. It is distributed at grocery stores in 13 states. And for the 1994 season, if all goes as planned, it will debut at three more ballparks as well as in the pipeline of several key new distributors.

"I believe that Champ! is one underdog that will have its day," says Milazzo. "There's nothing else like it on the market, and practically anyone who tastes it is hooked."

The only fudge and nut-covered ice cream bar at the grocery store level, Champ! is sort of a deluxe tin roof sundae on a stick: premium vanilla ice cream topped by a layer of fudge sauce and generously studded with lightly salted Spanish peanuts ("our secret ingredient," Milazzo says). The nuts are in quarters and halves for maximum crunch—not granulated, as in most other products—and the whole bar is encased in a thick, rich coating of either milk or semi-sweet dark chocolate.

Fans of the Champ! get their money's worth! Champ! weighs in at 4.2 ounces, bigger than both DoveBar's and Haagen Dazs' 3.67. Yet at $1.49 for a one-pack or $2.99 for a three-pack, it generally costs 10 percent less.

Milazzo created the Champ! in his Northbrook kitchen in 1987 as what he thought would be a sideline to a catering business he was running. He catered a lot of outdoor summer events and thought an ice cream bar would be a nice add-on.

The first Champ! bars were handmade, hand-dipped, hand-wrapped, and they were an instant hit. To keep up with demand, Milazzo turned production over to Wells Dairy in Iowa, the second largest volume ice cream manufacturer in the U.S.

But simply to enter a grocery store chain in the Chicago market requires a healthy four-figure slotting fee. In the hope of building enough consumer demand outside the supermarket channel to induce stores to reduce their fee to his small company, Milazzo decided to tackle what seemed to be all even tougher market: the Chicago Cubs and the Wrigley Field fans.

Armed with an artist's rendering of the Champ! character logo wearing a Cubs cap and mitt instead of the usual boxing glove, Milazzo marched into the Cubs' inner sanctum. At the first meeting, his samples were melted. "But they ate the fudge, nut and chocolate coating part with their fingers, and they were so impressed with the flavor combination that they invited me back," Milazzo recalls.

Five meetings later, he had a deal. The Champ! debuted at Wrigley Field in 1989, and savvy Chicago buyers immediately saw the advantages of having the Champ! in their stores.

Distribution has followed the same pattern in Champ!'s other ballclub cities—the ballpark first, the grocery and convenience stores next, often with the desired break on fees. And Champ! has spread to other states as enthusiastic distributors have passed the word.

Be aware of dangers in bank sold mutual funds

ALAN NADOLNA

There was an excellent program on National Public Radio. The discussion dealt with the sale of mutual funds, annuities and life insurance by banks and savings and loans.

The message was clear that many people purchasing these investments completely misunderstand the risk inherent in that investment. In a recent survey, nearly 80 percent of individuals who purchased investments through banks expressed the belief that investments were insured in the same way that CD's and other bank accounts were insured.

This is not intended as an indictment of banks selling investments. What it is, is an expression of concern that millions of individuals are seeking higher returns than are currently available in traditional savings vehicles. These individuals are largely unaware of the risks inherent in other forms of investments.

There is nothing wrong, in fact it is perfectly intelligent to invest in vehicles where there is risk. Higher returns than "safe money market and CD rates" are only available if one is willing to accept a certain degree of risk.

The problem is one of individuals transferring money from safe repositories into investments they do not understand. Interest rates will eventually begin to increase. When they do, bond mutual funds, bonds and most likely common stock will deteriorate in value.

Unwary investors who used these vehicles as a safe alternative will be disappointed, and possibly financially disadvantagged by suffering real losses of principal value. This realization spread among the many investors who fall in to this category can create a "run on the bank" scenario. This will accelerate declines in value as investors seek to sell investments and get out of the various markets.

It is in times like these that the value of a professional advisor becomes apparent. A professional advisor can and should take the time to understand the ability of each individual to accept and understand the risk of each investment. Those of us in the investment community are extremely concerned about the very likely overreaction that will occur when some form of market correction or interest rate increases occur. At his point there is probably little that can be done to avert this, but all advisors have a responsibility to attempt to make as many clients as aware as possible of this added investment risk.

If you have moved funds from banks and/or savings and loans into other forms of investment, you should reflect upon the risks that you have accepted. Whatever means you use you should spend the time or seek the advice of a professional to obtain an understanding of the investments you have obtained, the risks you have accepted and the repercussions of various market reactions.

ual risk tolerance for anyone interested, contact Associates in Financial Planning, 100 S. Wacker Dr., Suite 1650, Chicago, IL 60606 or call at 1 (800)428-9786 or (312)220-0337.

Thank You

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to the many people who expressed their care and concern to our family with the passing of our beloved husband, father, and grandfather. A special note of thanks to the Fox Lake Rescue Squad/Fire Dept., the Fox Lake Police Dept., the Lake County Sheriff's Dept., those who helped to celebrate and eulogize the Mass at St. Bede's Church, the Fraternal Organizations and Members, those who offered food, masses, and memorials to the Fire Dept./Rescue Squad, and to the Scholarship Fund at the Grant Community High School, and for other kindnesses too numerous to mention individually. While he will be greatly missed by his family, we will always take comfort in the many heartwarming acts of kindness that were shown to us in our time of need.

Sincerely,
The Family of Walter H. Korpan Sr.

Griefnotes

My friend's baby died. How can I help?

Infants are very important to their parents. The hopes that are built during pregnancy, the excitement at birth and the thrill of getting to know the infant are dashed when the baby's life ends. Parents ought to be allowed to grieve and express their feelings. If possible, an opportunity to talk with other parents who have also lost young children can be most helpful. It is usually not helpful to suggest that now there is another angel in heaven or that the parents' grief will be eased by simply having another child. Visit the family often and allow them to tell you of their loss and what the infant meant to them.

How To Write A Bestseller.

Give the reader all the specifics.

Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as:

- color • size • condition
  - brand name • age
  - features • and benefits
- Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts.

Include the price.

Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

Avoid Abbreviations.

Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in-kitchen) or WSW tires (white side wall) and won't take the time to figure them out.

Include phone number & hours.

Let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

Run consecutive weeks.

Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your sales representative. Run your ad for at least two weeks.

BALKAN

If you're looking for a place to put a porch swing, check out the Balkan. The long porch on this country-contemporary home sweeps across most of the front facade. A skylight brightens the recessed entry, which is offset to the right.

This plan is designed to please families who want room for both individual and group activities. Gathering spaces, formal and informal, are at the core, master suite to the left, secondary bedrooms and an office to the right.

The spacious master suite is more than just a place to sleep. Light streams into a sitting area from four sides. It has two sets of glass doors. One set opens on the front porch and the other set leads out onto a private covered porch with access to the rear yard. Skylights bathe the dual-compartment bathroom in natural light. Other luxuries include twin basins and a two-person shower.

The kitchen is filled with light. Windows in the nook and a garden window in front of the sink overlook the front porch. A long dog-leg shaped eating bar provides ample counter space for families that like to cook together. Built-in appliances include a range in the eating bar, a raised dishwasher, and an eye-level oven. A pantry adds to the storage space.

Dining room and living room are open to each other, while a cozy fireplace provides partial separation. Sliding glass doors in the living room lead to a raised deck, accessible from the family room as well. Pocket doors allow the family room to be completely enclosed so it can function as a family theater, fully surrounding listeners with sound. Cabinetry in one wall houses a large-screen television, stereo components, tapes, CDs, videotapes and what-have-you. Face frame cabinets in the office provide convenient rear access.

A long linen/closet closet lines the hallway outside two bedrooms and a shared bathroom. Utilities are nearby, in a pass-through space to a three-car garage with shop and storage.

Easing Your Tax Burden

New tax law expands earned income credit

One of the nice things about my job is that I can also help working people get either a larger pay check every week, or a larger refund when they file their return, by explaining the Earned Income Credit (EIC). The EIC is a special credit for low-income workers with children. The credit is subtracted from the amount of tax you owe, so you end up paying less tax—or even getting money back.

The new tax law passed in 1993 increased the amount of EIC available to you in 1994, and also expanded the eligibility requirements. But, let's discuss 1993 returns first.

When you file your 1993 return the EIC may mean an extra $2,364 for you. You may qualify for the EIC if, during 1993:

- You had income from a job or self-employment.
- You earned income and adjusted gross income are both less than $23,050, and
- You have a child who lived with you in the United States for more than half the year (the whole year for a foster child) in 1993. This child can be your son or daughter, adopted child, grandchild, stepchild or foster child. The child must be under age 19, or under age 24 and a full-time student, or any age if permanently and totally disabled.

The maximum EIC is $2,364. The EIC is divided into three credits. You may qualify for one, two or all three credits.

• If you have one child the basic credit may be worth up to $1,434. If you have more than one child, the most you could receive is $1,511.

• You may also get a health insurance credit of up to $465 if you paid health insurance premiums that covered at least one child.

• Finally, you can get an extra credit worth as much as $388 for a child born in 1993.

You can claim the EIC by filing either Form 1040 or 1040A with Schedule EIC.

If you qualified for the EIC in 1993 and believe you will also qualify in 1994, you can get a portion of the basic credit from your employer in each paycheck during the year. This can mean up to an extra $120 each month.

To receive Advance Earned Income Credit, simply complete Form W-5, "Earned Income Credit Advance Payment Certificate," and give it to your employer (you cannot claim the EIC if you are only self-employed). If at any time during the year your circumstances change and you are no longer eligible for EIC, you will have to repay the amount advanced to you when you file your tax return. To stop the advance payments, you must fill out a new Form W-5 and give it to your employer.

Starting in 1994, the new tax law significantly expand the basic EIC while repealing the supplemental young child and the health insurance components of the credit. The credit also is extended to working taxpayers without children, provided that the person is at least age 25 but less than 65 and is not the dependent of another taxpayer. However, the advance payment option is not available for workers without children.

One child: $2,038 maximum credit; $23,753 phaseout.

maximum credit; $25,299 phaseout.

No child: $306 maximum credit; $9,000 phaseout.

Publication 596, "Earned Income Credit," explains all the rules to qualify for and claim the EIC. It is available by calling 1(800)829-3676. Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) and Tax Counseling for the Elderly (TCE) sites are open during the filing season to give free one-on-one tax help. For the location of a VITA or TCE site, or to ask a question of an IRS tax assistant, call 1(800)829-1040. — by MARILYN W. DAY, IRS District Director for northern Illinois

It's perfectly clear in NSC: Mustangs the best this year

STEVE PETERSON

Staff Reporter

Mundelein wished to make one thing perfectly clear.

When it comes to boys basketball in the North Suburban Conference, nobody does it better. Mundelein was pushed, but survived and kept its perfect league mark intact with a 75-67 win over Warren.

The outcome was very much in doubt when the Mustangs tried something they had not done all year - a clear-out play to Kyle Kessel. Kessel took the ball at the free-throw line while his teammates kept the Warren defense occupied a few feet away. Kessel hit a wide-open lay-up, the easiest of his nine baskets, was fouled, and sank a free-throw for a 61-56 lead with 3:20 left. Warren could not get any closer than 4 points.

"We had not used that play all year. Warren kept saying, make him go right, make him go right. Kyle goes better to his right than his left. That was the key play," Coach Dennis Kessel said.

By then it was perfectly clear who would take the NSC game and the title with a 15-0 mark. It was the first league title in 23 years - actually clinched when Zion-Benton lost Friday. The players were not even born the last time MHS won the league and perfectly clear was a White House buzz phrase.

"That was a good play by them. It was the only time they used it the whole ballgame," Warren Coach Chuck Ramsey said.

Kyle Kessel finished with 22 points Saturday, but shot only 9 of 20 from the field. "I thought we played pretty good defense on him. Sean Stackhouse hit some key baskets, but we did a good job against the three other guys," Ramsey said.

Mundelein closes the regular season at Stevenson Feb. 18 and hosts Antioch, its first round sectional foe, Feb. 22. Warren is at Fenton Feb. 18 and Zion-Benton Feb. 22. All games are 7:30 p.m. starts.

Stackhouse took over in the final few minutes, gliding to the paint for open 10-footers.

"We did not make a goal to go undefeated, we wanted to win the conference championship," Mundelein Coach Kessel said. "Half-way through we made it one of our goals. That is what is pushing us. It would be a feather in our hat."

"I like having the ball in the clutch and I know Kyle does too. I did not try to force anything. I was surprised. I thought the second time they would switch, but they did not. I hesitated, but I am glad it went in. I like coming to my left," Stackhouse said.

"This is the first time I ever won everything," Stackhouse said.

Warren (13-11, 7-7 NSC) trimmed 12 points from a 15-point Mundelein lead. A three-pointer from Chris Kohn (12 points) brought the visitors to within 60-56 and Eric Bradley hit a trey.

Jeff Woods led the Warren effort with 22 points.

Warren fell to Libertyville 58-51 as the Wildcats outscored Warren 20-6 down the stretch.

"Scoring 67 is enough to win a lot of games. It is not like we have to find another 15 or 20-point scorer," Ramsey said. "We have to find a way to avoid those dry spells that often coincide with the spurts of our opponents. Last night was late, tonight it was early."

Ramsey said his team has made progress since losing to Libertyville and Mundelein the first time by 20 points each.

"We have made definite strides forward," Ramsey said.

Not the kind of strides they were celebrating across the way in the MHS cafeteria.

"We would not be undefeated without these fans here. See you in Champaign," Thad Miller (10 points) said.

It was up to Kyle Kessel to caution that enthusiasm.

"We have not gotten there yet. We have to keep on working," he said.

Clear enough.

Scharlau, Lancers execute in final seconds for win

Don Zeman learned early Saturday this would be a day to remember.

"My iceless hockey team (in Antioch) won its first game," Zeman said.

That was in the morning. By mid-afternoon, the College of Lake County women's basketball team had ended a frustrating month with a 76-73 win over Milwaukee Area Technical College. The Lancers had a good week, learning they had gained a forfeit win over Morton at a Christmas tourney and a third-place trophy. The Lancers headed into the regular season's final week with a 6-16 mark.

It took some clutch execution in the final two minutes to ward off the outside gunnery of the Stormers. The win was not sealed until Amy Scharlau canned 1 of 2 free throws with 14.8 seconds left.

"I was nervous," the Wauconda High grad said. "I was hoping there would not be a timeout. You just have to relax."

Scharlau reached double figures for the first time in four games with 24 points, many as CLC gained an 8-point first half lead. CLC executed everything diagrammed to perfection in the closing minutes - from Christy Zink (16 points, 15 rebounds) getting it back to start a play after a rebound to Heather Ford (17 points) getting the ball inbound.

"We all have been working very hard to build each other's confidence," Scharlau said.

"We had close games before, but we had not executed in the final two or three minutes. We held our composure and made some solid plays," Zeman said.

MATC had 13 3-pointers, the most of any opposition, according to Zeman.

CLC overcame that, thanks to key rebounding from Zink, out of Round Lake.

Ford's only three-pointer of the game gave CLC a 56-53 lead with 9:324 left and momentum for the next three minutes. Julie Frankowski (13 points), playing despite an ankle injury, gave the home team a 58-54 margin with 8:4 left.

MATC still had a few three-pointers left and took a one-point lead.

Frankowski and a Scharlau fast-break gave CLC a 68-65 lead.

Scharlau gained a steal and a layup after a tie on a three-pointer and CLC was not headed in the final 3:30. The lead grew to 6 on 2 Ford free throws at the 2:30 mark.

CLC had lost 82-61 to Oakton in Skyway play. Frankowski, a Warren Township High grad, had 20 points and Patti Owens, a Grant High grad, had 10. CLC trailed 44-21 at halftime.

CLC closed the regular season at Morton Feb. 17.

Local boxers competing in Chicago Golden Gloves

Jim Mellen, Head Coach of Wounded Deer Boxing Club, in Libertyville announced the entry of two of its boxers in the 1994 Chicago Golden Gloves Boxing Tournament, which begins on Feb. 14 at St. Andrews Gym in Chicago.

Tom Thomason, of Mundelein, will be competing in the Senior Novice Cruiserweight

Division, and Joe Hirasawa, of Lake Forest, will be competing in the 147 pound "Novice Division."

On Saturday, Jan. 29, another boxer representing Wounded Deer Boxing Club, Steve Vogt, a sophomore at Johnsburg High School, will be competing in the All-Junior Show at the Matadors Boxing Club Gym in Chicago in the 165 pound division.

Defense, team unity spark Carmel girls in loop meet

STEVE PETERSON
 Staff Reporter
 Kathy Breginzer and the rest of the Carmel girls basketball team may have wondered what they got themselves into when the 1993-94 season began 3-11. But the Corsairs are on a roll, and the Girls' Catholic Conference tourney was no exception. The shots were off, and free-throw misses kept St. Scholastica closer than Carmel would have liked but defense was consistent in a 50-44 win.
 "It has been excellent. We have come together as a team. I'm hustling more since the start of the new year," Breginzer said.
 The senior scored 14 points as Carmel held on after a 12-point lead at halftime. The win advanced Carmel to the GCAC title game.

 "We work on defense a lot," Breginzer said.
 "Kathy is starting to use the potential she has. She is right on target," Coach Larry Whittier said. "She has played the last three weeks as a leader."
 Breginzer had four rebounds and seven takeaways as Carmel beat St. Scholastica for the second time this year.
 "Defense has been our strong suit. It takes four good quarters and we played three," Whittier said.
 Breginzer, from Mundelein, agreed, terming the defense as "tremendous. But we got sloppy in the third quarter."

 St. Scholastica's Chris Head got hot in the third stanza and scored 18 second-half points.
 Carmel was up 36-28 to begin the fourth quarter but Head scored twice and cut the margin to six, 40-34.
 Erin Potempa (12 points) hit two baskets to keep the home team ahead.
 Breginzer hit one of just two free throws Carmel made in the final minute. CHS survived as the visitors misfired on three 3-pointers.
 "We could not slam the door shut because of the free throws,"

Whittier said. Carmel finished 10-for-22.
 Colleen Krombach, a sophomore, added 9 and Colleen Halverson 6.
 Krombach had seven rebounds and six takeaways. "She is all division and tonight she played like it," Whittier said.
 The bad news about the Wednesday win was the Corsairs had to prepare for both the league title game and the tourney opener at Round Lake two days after.
 Carmel downed Madonnah 57-38 in the conference tourney opener. Potempa's triple double of 12 points, 12 rebounds and 10 assists led the way.

Lancers demonstrate talents in non-conference victory

STEVE PETERSON

 Everything was clicking for College of Lake County's men's basketball team, looking to work out conference frustrations against non-conference Milwaukee Area Technical College (MATC) Saturday.
 The Lancers showed a home crowd they could:
 Stage a comeback with a strong lineup, as they had to rally from 10-points down for a 99-88 win;
 Out muscle MATC to 64 rebounds, led by Rocky Campanella with 12 and Chris Vaughn with 11.
 Stay close with strong first-halves from Mike Rudd (8 of 13 points) and Jerry Anderfuren (all 10 points) and an equally strong last 10 minutes from Justin Hanlin (15 of team-high 17 points).
 Finally, last but not least, survive the outside gunnery of Keith Young (41 points) and Lonedell Skinner (22 points).
 About the only item left on the agenda was scoring 100 points. The Lancers nearly hit the century mark, but the final shot rimmed out.
 "You have a lot of confidence when they (the shots) were hitting in the first half," Rudd, a freshman guard, said.

Rudd is the Lancers' first person off the bench, a role he is familiar with.
 "I had the same role in high school," Rudd said.
 Campanella said the key to slowing down the three's was more pressure in the perimeter. "We wanted to guard them farther out."
 Campanella, a Carmel High grad, and the rest of the team is pleased with the way the squad has executed as of late. CLC brought a 9-18 overall record into the regular season's final week.
 "We're more patient on offense and playing together as a team. We have really improved a lot since the first game," Campanella said.
 "I think we have been playing well the last month," CLC Coach Bruce Smith said.
 The freshman had to make adjustments from his days as a Corsair. "I played weak in high school, but I hit the weights," he said.
 Campanella scored 6 of his points in the first 10 minutes as CLC built a 20-13 lead.
 Then the Storm hit.
 Five three-pointers allowed the visitors to gain a 42-32 lead with 3:55 left in the first half.
 Campanella got a slam, then the small lineup took over.
 "Steve Bickerwert and Nelson

Anderson played the post. We never tried it before," Smith said.
 A three-point play by Bickerwert and a Robert Kindle backdoor play cut the lead to 50-49 at half.
 CLC dominated the early stages of the second half, gaining a 14-point lead on a Rudd steal and lay-up.
 CLC challenged Skyway power Oakton before falling 90-80.

 Bickerwert, who was injured in the MATC game, had 22 along with Hanlin.
 CLC trailed by just 3 at half-time, 44-41.

Ford's hoop allows CLC upse

College of Lake County's women's basketball team turned the tables on the Skyway Conference leader.
 The Lancers improvement over the last three weeks reached a peak with a 58-56 win over the Spartans at home. The win helped gain revenge for 27 and 30-point losses to ECC.
 "We played smart and made the extra pass and showed patience," Coach Don Zeman said.
 Heather Ford had 17 points to lead the way Tuesday, the most critical a game-winning lay-up with 4 seconds left.

Carmel gymnast to defend state title

Although the defending state gymnastics champs have a chance, Carmel High's girls gymnastics team is not expecting to be in the spotlight this weekend.

"We want to just perform as well as we did at regional and sectional," Carmel Coach Nob Bendixen said.

The Corsairs earned an at-large bid with 143.20 points, good enough for third at the Fremd sectional. Host Fremd, a favorite in the state meet Feb. 19 at Palatine, won the sectional with 144.55 points.

"All the gymnasts performed well and we met one of our goals in getting back to state. At the start of the season, I was not

Carmel qualified the whole team while individuals from Libertyville, Antioch, Mundelein and Stevenson will compete.

Qualifying for Carmel on the vault were Kathy Klockowski, who also advanced in the uneven parallel bars. She took first on the balance beam at 9.0 and was third on the uneven bars at 9.3.

Amie Zanck tied frosh Klockowski on the balance beam with a 9.3. Jessica Kane of Antioch made the state meet with a 9.2.

Stephanie Kaufman paced the Stevenson effort in the all-around with a 9.18 for fourth and fifth in floor exercise and second in uneven parallel bars.

Gina Zubert started the vault with a fall but came back to help her team.

Liz Novacek of Mundelein was 13th in the floor exercise. Tanya Holik of Carmel 16th.

Kaufman and Kristen Hall of CHS tied for seventh in the vault.

Contenders for the team title include Fremd, Naperville and New Trier.

"We are a lot looser this week. We want to clean up what we have been doing and stay loose," Bendixen said.

Lawnmower racing: proves not just fall sport

STEVE PETERSON

Staff Reporter

Just when one thought it was months away before lawnmower racing is in the headlines once more, think again.

The sport, held annually at the Lake County Fairgrounds each Labor Day, is expanding to a wintertime venture. At least that is what Kevin Penny has in mind.

Penny spent 10 hours getting 650 yards of Lake Millmore ready for Sunday's test runs.

"It is something unique, something different," Larry Merriman said.

By day, Merriman is a welding instructor at Lake County Area Vocational Center in Grayslake.

"We wanted to see if anyone is interested in this and we are pleased with the turnout," Penny said.

Penny, of Lake Villa, hopes the hobby of racing lawnmower engines which can top 40 MPH on grass catches on the ice. Most of the 10 to 15 people who gathered this windy day will be competing in the Stabil national event in September.

"I used to race motorcycles and that is what got me into

"The bottom line is to have fun," Ray Mrocks said.

Also important is raising funds. The Stabil event raised $7,000 for ALS research. Penny would like to see a regular schedule of lawnmower racing on ice, with profits going to ALS Foundation.

Penny beat Dave Brown in a race set up for a visitor. He clocked 27 seconds and did not spin out.

But some did.

"You crawl out and get back

Mrocks' job this day is to begin to work with a flag system - red to stop; yellow for caution; white as last lap and black for a penalty.

For more information, call Penny at 566-4140 or 356-9125.

CLC wrestlers head west, take aim at national

One wrestler overcame illness, another gained an escape in the final seconds and a third continued his consistent season.

All three—John Keaskowski at 134 pounds, Ben Bubeck at 190 and Rick Quigley at 167—took seconds and third place finishes in the sectional meet at Harper for berths in nationals Feb. 25-26. Bismarck, North Dakota may not be the garden spot, but it will be the site for the best junior college wrestlers.

Keaskowski suffered from knee and other "nagging" injuries, according to Coach Stan Pasiewicz.

The former Round Lake wrestler will join the likes of Joe Belcher and Jerry Chapman as former Panthers who went through the CLC program to nationals.

"He gave his opponents a good, solid match. He is a hard worker. In the finals, he realized what he could do, but it was too late," Pasiewicz said.

Quigley gave the fans at the Harper College meet an exciting 167-pound match. He won 8-6 on an escape in the third period over Jason Bowser of Waubesa for third.

"Quigley has been working hard for two years. He never missed a practice or a meet. He is very deserving," Pasiewicz said.

Bubeck fell in the title 20-14 to Lance Parsons of Lincoln.

"Ben could be an All-American," the CLC coach commented.

Pasiewicz said he was pleased with his team's fourth-place showing with 27 points. Lincoln had 96, host Harper 87 and Triton 67. CLC beat out fellow Skyway Conference foe Waubesa.

Gaining fourth-places and just missing competing at Bismarck are Steve Fuller (142) and George

Grant, MHS notch wins, tops in regular season

At times this season, Grant High boys basketball coach Tom Maple has not been pleased with his team's shooting "in the paint".

One of those times was NOT Tuesday.

Grant worked the ball inside to Mike Ingram and Kurt Filiatreault for 22 and 19 points, respectively as Grant pulled away from host Wauconda 80-58.

"We were methodical on offense, but hit most of our shots inside the paint area," Maple said. "We outrebounded them 2-1."

Grant improves to 9-4 in the Northwest Suburban Conference, 16-7 overall while Wauconda drops to 4-9, 6-16.

at NWSC champ Grayslake Feb. 22.

"Wauconda did a nice job against our trap, but did not have the weapons," Maple said.

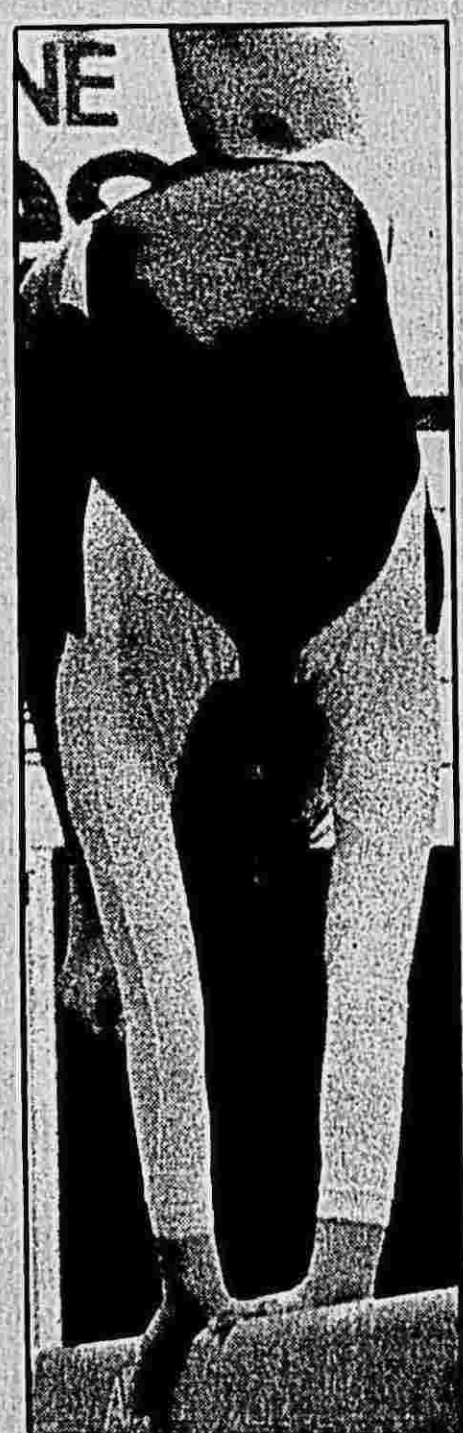

Cory Kazimour led the Wauconda effort with 16 points.

Grant led 17-14 after one, but extended the margin in the second quarter. Wauconda pulled to within single digits before the visitors finished with a 24-point fourth quarter.

Bill Richards and Mike Dunleavy share a position and are averaging a combined 13 points.
